

Way Cleared for Travel Abroad of Military Families

McNamara Announces Ban Lifted Starting at Once

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced today that travel of dependents of military men stationed abroad will be resumed immediately.

Families have been banned from going with or joining servicemen abroad under government authorization since last September.

The cut-off was ordered, in part, to cut spending of dollars overseas and improve the U.S. balance of payments situation.

Another aim was to free planes and ships for the partial mobilization buildup of men and equipment in Europe.

In announcing end of the travel ban, McNamara also disclosed that the Defense Department will try out short rotation of Army units, probably of about battle group size, without dependents, as one means of holding down the foreign expenditure of U.S. dollars.

He said he has in mind duty tours not exceeding 13 months and in some cases less.

The defense chief emphasized that the problem of cutting down the outflow of gold is still serious. "We are going to have to take further action," he said.

The defense chief emphasized that the problem of cutting down the outflow of gold is still serious. He said "we are going to have to take further action" along this line.

In his formal announcement, McNamara said:

"It is the general policy of the department of defense that service personnel serving overseas should not be separated from their families except during emergencies or for short tours. Such a restriction leading to separation (of families) has adverse effects on the morale and career incentives of military personnel."

"Resumption of dependent travel will not immediately increase the number of dependents in Europe. When dependent travel was suspended, there was a simultaneous extension of tours of personnel in Europe. Consequently, there has not been the normal flow of returning dependents. With resumption of dependent travel, those returning dependents will approximate the number arriving in Europe until December 1962. Thus, for the first several months there will be little increase in the dependent population in western Europe."

In answer to a question, McNamara estimated that the number of dependents going overseas might be about 6,000 a month in the future.

McNamara noted that when several thousand servicemen were "frozen" in duty instead of being released from service, a number of those men had dependents in Europe. These servicemen are being released rapidly.

U.S. Steel Must Boost Income, Blough Asserts

Profits Inadequate To Pay for Plant Upgrading, He Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger M. Blough says U.S. Steel Corp. "have to do everything we can"—short of an early increase in prices—to bolster earnings.

"The economic situation that we had before we attempted to change our prices remains with us," he said in appraising future prospects of the nation's third largest industrial corporation.

Blough, U.S. Steel chairman, referred to the surprise $6 a ton boost announced April 10 and then withdrawn 72 hours later in the face of an angry response by President Kennedy.

He met with newsmen Tuesday after "Big Steel" disclosed January-March profits were $55.8 million. He said the figure left nothing for plant improvement after keeping abreast of dividend obligations to stockholders and debt repayment requirements.

Defends Proposed Boost

In defending the abortive price boost, Blough had said it was needed to gather funds for upgrading and expanding plants to stay competitive with rival materials at home and steelmakers abroad.

The industrialist, answering the questions with customary caution, mentioned no specific steps for overcoming the corporation's cost-price squeeze, speaking only of an intense effort to hold down costs.

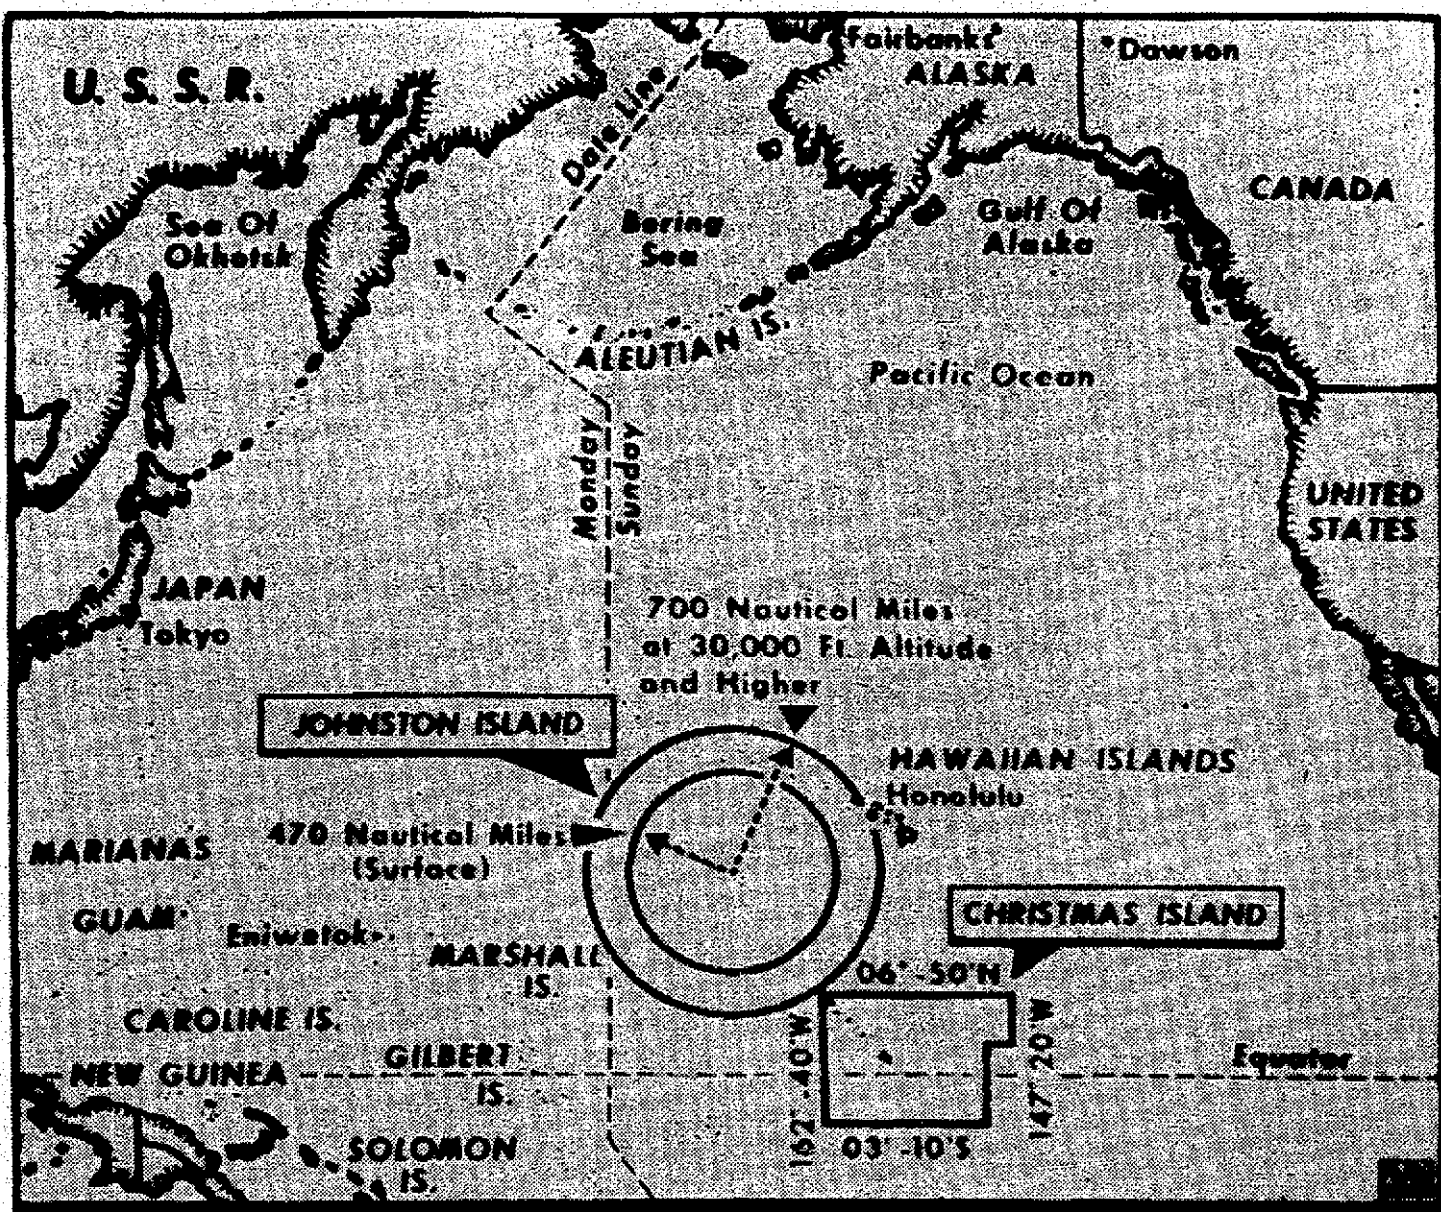

He indicated the government could help out by liberalizing regulations on depreciation, a factor in profits.

He ruled out repetition of the price move two weeks ago when asked whether there would be prior consultation with the White House in any such project.

U.S. Sets Off First Shot of New Nuclear Test Series

Map Locates Areas around Christmas and Johnston Islands in the Pacific where U. S. nuclear tests are to be conducted. The Kennedy administration gave the go-ahead Tuesday for the atmosphere tests.

Informants Say Explosion Occurred This Morning; AEC Report Is Awaited

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States fired its first shot of the new nuclear test series in the atmosphere over the Central Pacific early today, Pacific Time, government informants reported.

An official announcement was expected from the Atomic Energy Commission later this afternoon.

Information was that the shot had been fired in very late morning, Washington time, and first reports here from Task Force 8 indicated a successful test.

The test series started a few hours after President Kennedy flashed the go-ahead signal Tuesday after months of effort to get the Soviet Union to agree to a reliable nuclear weapons test ban had failed.

State Department officials declared as the test began that the United States would still be willing to halt the series at any time the Soviet Union would sign a firm test ban agreement with dependable inspection provisions.

Japanese Objection

Meanwhile, the State Department disclosed that Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakawa had called at the department Tuesday and formally registered his country's strong objection to any kind of nuclear testing.

Kennedy's authorization for the tests to proceed came in a day of appeals and warnings against resumption of testing. U. Thant, acting Secretary-General of the United Nations, and India's Prime Minister Nehru urged the great powers to refrain from testing. In Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko repeated Russian warnings that the Soviet Union would conduct new tests unless the United States relented.

On Capitol Hill, Kennedy's go-ahead announcement was greeted with general approval, with several members of Congress saying that the President had no alternative.

Leftists Angered

The U.S. Information Agency said today it has found strong support in the Philippines, Thailand and Latin America for the resumption of U.S. atmospheric testing. It reported that opinion in areas including the Middle East, South Asia and Africa is opposed to testing.

Japan's leftist Zengakuren student federation said it would demonstrate at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo every day U.S. tests are conducted.

It has been almost four years since the United States made its last nuclear tests in the atmosphere, although it has reported firing 29 small (as nuclear gadgets go) devices underground in Nevada last fall.

It has been almost eight months since the Soviet Union set off a series of powerful nuclear blasts on her arctic proving ground—to shatter the moratorium observed by the two countries and Great Britain since 1958.

Tempo Increases

Battle Group of 2,000 Will Fly to Germany in May

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 2,000-man infantry battle group will be flown to Germany in early May as part of a new exercise designed to test U.S. ability to reinforce defenses in Europe.

The Pentagon announced today that exercise "Long Thrust III," as it has been named, will take place between May 7 and May 12.

The 1st Battle Group, 8th Infantry, will be airlifted to Germany by air transports to replace the 2nd Battle Group, 39th Infantry, which was carried across the Atlantic last January in a previous exercise, Long Thrust II.

Both battle groups are part of the 4th Infantry Division, based at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

Jet fighters will provide air cover on the transatlantic hop.

Heavy Fighting Off New Guinea Island

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Heavy fighting has broken out between Indonesian partisans and Dutch forces on Waigeo Island, off the northwest tip of West New Guinea, the Indonesian news agency Antara reported today.

The reports claimed the Dutch were attempting to recapture Waigeo from the Indonesians but had been repelled so far.

Saturn Shot Called Complete Success

Huge Rocket Blown Up After Perfect First Phase Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The great Saturn booster was launched successfully for the second time today and was deliberately blown up after the trial to dump 95 tons of cloud-forming water into the upper atmosphere.

With a tremendous roar and spurt of flame, the world's mightiest known rocket rode 1.3 million pounds of thrust to an altitude of 65 miles. There a signal from the ground detonated dynamite charges which ripped the vehicle apart, spilling the water into the near-vacuum of space in a bonus experiment.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced several minutes after the 9 a.m. launching that the flight was completely successful.

Water Freezes

Observers saw the water quickly form a huge cloud of snow-like ice particles which spread several hundred feet across a clear sky.

The great mass—higher than any natural cloud has flown—remained seemingly motionless in the air for only a few seconds, then spread apart and quickly vanished.

As on the first flight of the Saturn last October, only the first stage performance was being checked. And once again it was a remarkable performance by what is believed to be the largest and most complex rocket in the world—a forerunner of a rocket designed to carry American astronauts to the moon later in this decade.

Safety Major U.S. Goal in Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scientists who will conduct the U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific will be searching for new ways to safeguard atomic weapons from accidental firing or sabotage.

Pentagon officials said today improved safety mechanisms form one major goal in the new round of atmospheric tests ordered by President Kennedy.

Since the United States began developing atomic weapons in World War II, safety has been a prime consideration.

No Explosions

The Defense Atomic Support Agency claims it has a perfect record in 17 years of storing, transporting, flying, overhauling, inspecting and working with nuclear weapons in other ways.

There have been crashes of planes carrying nuclear weapons. Although the fuselages sometimes were heavily damaged or burned the weapons did not explode and there was only what the agency called "insignificant contamination."

While they are proud of this safety record, U.S. atomic weapons are anxious to develop even more assured precautions.

Nuclear Sub Fires Polaris Missile From Atlantic

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The nuclear submarine Sam Houston successfully fired a Polaris missile from 90 feet beneath the surface of the Atlantic today.

The firing occurred 50 miles east of the Florida coast. It was not announced in advance by the Defense Department. However, the smoke trail from the solid fuel weapon was clearly visible to observers in the Cape Canaveral area.

The Sam Houston is the seventh nuclear sub to successfully fire the Polaris from beneath the sea. The other six are on station and will be joined by the Sam Houston when it completes its trials here.

Ransom Kitty Empty

MIAMI — The Cuban families committee admitted yesterday it was without a dollar in its ransom kitty and $2,500,000 in hock to Fidel Castro for 60 invasion prisoners freed 11 days ago.

"But we have high hopes," committee members said.

The hopes rest with a nationwide, professionally-guided fund-raising campaign that is kicking off today in New York City.

No Cash for Ransoms

It is designed to raise not only the $2,500,000 already owed but by the additional $59,500,000 Castro is asking for the 1,169 invaders still imprisoned in Havana.

In its first frank admission of its position, the families committee gave these heretofore unrevealed facts last night:

1. There are no ransom funds on hand. The committee's treasury consists of "less than $300,000 in cash, plus 72 pieces of jewelry." The cash is being used for operating expenses, "but only if the donors sign, before witnesses that we can use their money for that purpose."

Cubans Say Castro Freed 60 on Trust; Fund Drive Starts Today

2. The $25,000,000 worth of "pledges" once reportedly in the committee's treasury actually were promises by certain persons and business firms to "underwrite" loans with which the committee hoped to buy tractors.

3. The "tractors for prisoners" deal, proposed last May by Castro, was ready to be consummated this March, committee members said. "Then Castro suddenly said he didn't want tractors and said he'd gotten enough from his Soviet associates."

4. The committee, with the approval of its "underwriters," then offered $25,000,000 worth of "other products," and asked Castro to meet with them and say what he wanted.

5. These negotiations were interrupted by the announcement of the prisoners' $62,000,000 "sentences" on April 7, "but Castro said, 'come ahead to Havana, and we will talk.'"

6. "Castro said he wanted nothing but money," committee members revealed. "He said he would trust us to raise the initial funds for 54 sick and wounded prisoners he intended to free and then he added six more and we got a total of 60 for which we owe, according to their sentences, between $2,500,000 and $2,500,000."

There were rumors in Miami last night that "six or seven" other prisoners, supposedly another group of wounded, were to be sent here from Havana by plane on Saturday.

Firm Conducts Drive

However, committee members were able to determine by telephone conversations with Havana late yesterday "there is nothing to these reports we had earlier in the day." The six or seven prisoners mentioned in the rumor were supposedly the victims of grenades and still carried fragments in their bodies.

Nikita Agrees With Kennedy on Summit

Tells American Publisher That Accord on Crucial Issues Must Precede Meeting of Two Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has told an American publisher he agrees with President Kennedy on crucial issues must precede a summit meeting between the two leaders.

Cowles, president of Look magazines and editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune Co.

Khrushchev told Cowles he now agrees with Kennedy that they should meet again only if such a meeting could produce positive results.

Common Decision

"We should first reach some agreement on the questions on which our common decision is required now to avoid a conflict and war," he said.

The Soviet leader expressed hope that a major war could be avoided, but he repeated his previously stated support for defensive war against an aggressor and wars by subject peoples to liberate themselves.

During wide-ranging discussion that lasted nearly three hours, Khrushchev told Cowles that he thought an agreement on Berlin and Germany should precede any disarmament agreement, but that he realized the arms issue was "the question of questions."

No Nuclear Inspection

The 68-year-old Soviet leader made clear he had not budged in his refusal to tolerate any form of nuclear inspection, which he looks on as merely a cover-up for espionage.

Khrushchev expressed belief some glimmers of hope for a Berlin and German settlement have appeared in the current negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union. He reiterated the Kremlin condition for such agreement—withdrawal of Western troops from West Berlin.

Khrushchev placed no time limit on the current talks and indicated he is prepared to pursue the present effort to reach an interim solution without applying any sudden new pressures on West Berlin.

Cowles asked whether Khrushchev thought it would be useful "if a summit meeting were held in the near future or if you, for example, invited President Kennedy to the Soviet Union to discuss matters with him?"

Khrushchev replied he had always believed such contacts were useful.

"The conversations I had with your president in Vienna left a favorable impression on me," he continued.

"True, we differed with him in our appraisal of the situation, and did not reach agreement on questions which require their solution. But at any rate, as a result of that meeting we now, apparently, understand one another better, and have a clearer picture of the questions it is necessary to settle."

The main Assembly action approved 71 to 20, with eight abstaining and four absent, a call "to refrain from further test explosions pending the conclusion of necessary binding agreements."

This move was opposed by all four nuclear-armed powers — United States, Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Assembly Sentiment
"I have simply to reflect the sentiment of the General Assembly, and I think it is quite proper for me to take this opportunity of appealing to all powers concerned to refrain from tests, on the basis of the resolutions adopted at the 16th session of the General Assembly."

Castro Says Children Won't be Sent to Russia
KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today branded as a cruel counter-revolutionary rumor the persistent report that his regime plans to take children from their parents and send them to the Soviet Union.

"It's an absurd, illogical idea," he told a nationwide television and radio audience in a post-midnight address.

Castro appeared as the final speaker in a panel discussion of Cuba's system of nurseries for children of working parents. He said the nurseries prove the concern of his regime for children because they make it unnecessary for working women to choose between having jobs and rearing families.

ANPA Head Attacks Critics Of Newspapers

Denies Claim That 'Newspapers Are Fading Away'

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association attacked as irresponsible today those critics who would "have the public believe newspapers are fading away."

Mark Ferree, ANPA president, told more than 1,200 publishers at the ANPA convention that "a new stridency has crept into some of the 'professional' criticism leveled at newspapers — something quite the opposite of constructive criticism."

In a prepared address, Ferree argued that such critics chop at the roots of the newspaper tree, "never recognizing that they, with all free citizens, live and work in the shade of that tree."

Chief Protection

Ferree, executive vice president and general business manager of Scripps-Howard Newspapers, warned that if newspapers—as a fully independent medium of news and opinion—faded, "criticism would wither, not for lack of a target but for lack of its chief protector."

He declared that newspapers were prepared to use imaginatively all opportunities of the space age, and announced the creation of a scientific advisory committee of the ANPA.

The committee will assess ways of adapting the latest scientific findings and equipment to newspaper technology, he said.

Newspapers Change
Ferree said newspapers had changed to protect the public's right to know and to respond to its needs in the space age.

Ferree said a recent survey showed that newspapers go into nine of 10 suburban and city homes, and are read thoroughly by seven of 10 readers. More than one-third of advertising was spent on newspapers last year, and circulations have reached record highs.

Newspapers that merged or suspended publication, he said, did so because of "specific local conditions—they will not indicate a weakness in all newspapers."

Swedish Seismograph Records French Quake

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP)—Uppsala University's seismograph showed indication of a disturbance shortly before 6 a.m. today, and a sharp earthquake shook the Grenoble area of southeast France about the same time.

After investigation, Dr. Severin Duda of the Uppsala Seismological Laboratory said the disturbance recorded by his instruments was probably an earthquake. There had been speculation earlier that it was the first blast in the new U.S. series of nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Spacecraft Expected to Strike Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — As the sun rises Thursday on the desolation of the lunar landscape, U.S. spacecraft Ranger 4 is expected to plunge from the black sky onto the surface of the moon.

Scientists say it will strike the unseen back side of the moon at 8:50 a.m. EST, exactly 63.913 hours after it blasted off from Cape Canaveral—carrying elaborate television equipment and the hopes of United States lunar experts for a close-up look at the moon.

The hopes were shattered when a timer failed and halted a sequence of maneuvers which would have brought Ranger's television eye into play as it neared the lunar surface.

Radio Beams Emitted
But Ranger, as blind as plunging meteor, hurtled on toward what would be a historic collision. If it strikes as expected, Ranger will be the first piece of U.S. hardware on the moon. The Russians hit it in 1959.

A tiny radio is sending out steady beeps by which scientists from Pasadena's Jet Propulsion Laboratory are tracking Ranger's flight. When the beeps stop, they will know it has hit.

At 5:50 a.m., Pasadena time, it will be dawn on the portion of the moon where Ranger should strike—a dawn the like of which man has never seen.

Gov. Nelson Visits Ft. Lewis, Praises 32nd's Sacrifices

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP)—Gov. The governor was a guest of honor at a division reception for 32nd Infantry Division Tuesday, 1,400 persons at the Officers' Club. "We in the state appreciate and understand how tremendous your sacrifice and service has been in preserving the national security," Nelson was greeted by a 19-gun salute as he visited the men of the former National Guard Division called to active duty last October at the height of the Berlin crisis.

The governor spoke briefly to officers and men of an all-Wisconsin honor guard formed in stiff winds, sprinkles of rain and sometimes sunshine on the main parade ground.

Nelson met with a number of division officers, talked with the men of various units and, despite the wind and rain, reviewed the troops, going "without a hat or overcoat."

Thant Appeals For Call-Off of Nuclear Tests

Message Stresses Official Opinion Adopted by U.N.

Chicago Daily News Service
UNITED NATIONS — In an 11th-hour appeal on the eve of three months of American nuclear tests over the Pacific Ocean, U.N. Acting Secretary General Thant has asked that no tests be held.

Testing by One Nation Jitters the Other Into Holding Its Own Blasts

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are in a grisly dance being played to the tune of "Anything You Can Do, I Can Do Better."

They're set for a new round of nuclear tests in the atmosphere, each explaining it must keep the other from getting ahead in the art of destruction.

But each test series gives the one conducting them fresh insights and refinements in weaponry, thus jitters the other into feeling it must have new tests of its own.

No Agreement
This can go on indefinitely, and probably will, since the two giants after years of talking can't agree to a permanent ban on tests.

President Kennedy gave the go-ahead Tuesday to American tests in the atmosphere. He explained why last month: to stay in front of the Russians.

But last August, when Premier Khrushchev broke a three-year voluntary ban on testing by the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, Moscow gave this reason: The Soviet Union couldn't let this country develop a nuclear weapon superiority over them.

Number of Tests
Between the end of World War II and the latter part of 1958, the big powers had this number of nuclear tests: the United States—160 to 170; Soviet Union—60 to 70; the British—more than 20. France later had four while the others weren't testing at all.

Then on Oct. 31, 1958, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union began talking about agreeing on a permanent test ban. They talked for almost three years. In that time none of them conducted a known test.

But they did this only voluntarily, not by signed agreement.

In the summer of 1961 U.S. authorities reportedly were picking up information that Soviet scientists and military men were pressing Moscow to resume tests.

Pressure From Congress
In this country pressure, particularly from Congress, began building up on Kennedy to resume in the West.

Suddenly on Aug. 30, 1961, while the American-Soviet-British talks about a permanent no-test agreement were still going on, Moscow announced it would start testing. And it did, on Sept. 1.

The Soviet Union said it had been compelled to take this "to perfect the most effective types of weapons to cool the hotheads (in the West.)"

The Russians added that the United States was getting ready to resume underground tests for the purpose of perfecting its weapons.

40 More Tests
In the next couple of months the Soviet Union had more than 40 tests. Kennedy felt he no longer could sit still. On Sept. 6 he said that "we have no other choice" and announced he had ordered the resumption of American tests, but only underground or in laboratories.

By Nov. 2, after the whole string of Soviet blasts, Kennedy announced preparations were being ordered for the resumption of American atmospheric tests because of Soviet gains.

Threat Doesn't Work
Still, arrangements were made for new talks on disarmament, including a nuclear test ban—this time Red China should join.

by 17 nations, starting in Geneva last March 14.

On March 2 Kennedy announced this country would go ahead with its atmospheric tests—suspended since 1958—unless before the end of April Moscow agreed to an effective test ban treaty. It hasn't.

Kennedy said the West couldn't survive "were we to stand still while the Soviets surpass us."

Khrushchev has warned that if the United States resumes testing, the Soviet Union will have to do more testing. France probably will test some more. Britain, too. In time Red China should join.

AMC Employees Plead Guilty to Theft of Parts

KENOSHA (AP)—Three American Motors employees pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges resulting from the theft of $200 worth of automotive parts from the Kenosha plant.

A group of employees at the Milwaukee plant was arrested on similar charges last week.

Kenosha police said a passerby noticed two of the men tossing the part into a car Monday night and notified the plant guard who called officers.

Charles White, 36, of Zion, Ill., and Harry Basham, 29, of Kenosha, pleaded guilty before County Judge Urban J. Zivers to charges of theft. They were freed on $750 bond after Judge Zivers ordered a presentence investigation and set sentencing for May 15.

Jimmy Harris, 37, also of Zion, whose car was involved, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and was fined $25 by County Judge Harry W. Carlson.

Tense Nerves Block Bowels

New tonic-tablet laxative acts on colonic muscles... de-constipates overnight.

The muscular wall of your colon contains nerves known to medicine as Auerbach's Plexus. In regular people, these nerves tell the colon muscles to propel and expel waste from the body. But tense nerves or emotional upset can block your normal bowel habits. Your colon muscle impulses are no longer strong enough to eliminate waste—which dries and shrinks, further aggravating the condition. Relief, doctors say, lies in the non-irritating, de-constipating principle of a new tonic-tablet called COLONOID. Of all leading laxatives, only COLONOID gives you its special 3-way overnight relief for tension-caused constipation. (1) COLONOID stimulates your colonic nerve network, to further activate and regularize its muscular "movement". (2) COLONOID's unique re-bulking action helps re-tone tense colon muscles. (3) COLONOID moistens for easy passage without pain or strain. COLONOID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; it is so gentle it was hospital-proved safe even for expectant mothers. Dangers of Red Propaganda

About a year ago, President Kennedy ordered that interception of mail from Communist countries be halted since, in the opinion of administration advisers, the method might lack statutory and constitutional authority and besides the publications were of no great danger to Americans.

Since that time there has been a mild uproar about the "flooding" of the nation with Red propaganda. The House of Representatives added an amendment to the administration postal bill which would restore the interception and labeling of Red material.

The Customs Bureau has been making a study of Red inspired literature and publications sent to this country. Its figures indicate that about half such material can be called propaganda in that it is either pro-Communist, anti-American or both. About 60 per cent of the propaganda goes to government agencies, foreign ambassadors, intelligence organizations and libraries which have a valid reason not connected with overthrowing our government. Some 40 per cent then goes to ordinary citizens. The amount gradually has been declining, according to Customs Bureau figures.

The House of Representatives apparently agreed with a member who said it was a good thing to be against propaganda in an election year. Only two present when the amendment came up opposed it. And yet we cannot believe that this great majority of our Congressmen actually feel there is a real and present danger of the subversion of the American people from Communist publications. Don't we still believe in our own philosophy of government enough to insist that our point of view will stand up in the market place of ideas?

Of course much of the material is misleading and slanted. But do we want to shield Americans from the Red ideological pressures over Berlin? Are pictures of smiling Soviet youngsters going to corrupt our youth? Just how stupid do we think the "ordinary American citizen" is? If the Communist apparatus is so clever that it can convert scores of Americans through a little written propaganda, we'd better re-examine our own ideas of government of, by and for the people.

There is another argument used against the unhampered entry of this Red material. Why should American taxpayers subsidize the dissemination of such propaganda? But if this argument is followed to its logical conclusion, why should American taxpayers subsidize the post office department at all? There are all sorts of ideas, of journals, of publications that we may not want, including forms from the Internal Revenue Service, that American taxpayers are subsidizing. The aid and assistance this subsidy gives to the Communist enemy is pretty picayune. Of more importance, it seems to us, is the American philosophy that we are not afraid to read the Red point of view because we know ours is much better.

Actually the amount of Red material that is coming into this country is hardly worth the argument. But if we restrict the Communist publications they will act to restrict ours. Our opportunity around the world is to convince other peoples that the United States stands for the rights of the individual, equality of opportunity and justice under law. Americans should be immune to Communist misrepresentations. But citizens of other countries sometimes can recognize truth when it is presented to them.

Watching the Federal Budget

The Kennedy administration is reported to be somewhat annoyed by the popular notion on balancing of the federal budget. Early in the year the issue was not important politically because it was estimated that the budget would be in balance. Since then, however, the small surplus has disappeared and in the face of a probable deficit some people are accusing Mr. Kennedy of "fiscal irresponsibility." There is some agreement on the idea that the present business upswing needed more stimulus from government and to provide that stimulus the budget probably will go into a deficit.

What the administration leaders would like the people to understand is this, "The government has a stimulating effect when it is spending more than its revenues, a restraining effect when revenues are greater than spending and a neutral effect when they balance."

The idea is that, when the budget is in deficit the government is actually pouring more money into the national economy than it is taking from the taxpayers. When the budget has a surplus the government is taking more money out of circulation than it is putting back in and thus tends to retard business. Likewise, when the budget is in balance the same amount that is taken from the taxpayers is being poured back into the economy and thus the effect is neutral.

However, the figures the public ordinarily considers in the budget are in the administrative budget. As it was presented in January for fiscal 1963 — the year beginning July 1 — revenues and expenditures would have balance at approximately $93 billion.

Robert C. Turner, an assistant director of the Budget Bureau, speaking recently in Omaha, Neb., pointed out that the familiar figure of $93 billion covers only four-fifths of what the government is actually doing. Trust funds, which include programs for highways, mortgage buying and selling, and Social Security are not included although they are part of the over-all stimulus. Furthermore, it was pointed out that the matter of timing is not accounted for in the administrative budget. It counts taxes when they are collected although the impact of taxes on a corporation comes earlier, when the corporation sets the money aside out of its profits. Furthermore, Mr. Turner pointed out, the administrative budget accounts for loans the same as if they were money spent. These facts are of great economic significance. In short, he says the familiar budget figures which do not tell what really is going on actually are misleading as a guide to economic policy.

In the view of the administration, the balanced budget is not the ultimate goal of successful financing. It is easy to see how deficit spending, brought about by a reduction of taxes, would permit greater spending by both government and business and thus boost business activity. If, however, the deficit is brought about by increased spending while business is being bled white by high taxes the spending might be insufficient to ward off ultimate disaster.

Vigilance Necessary

Sunday's Family Weekly carried an article on "The Newspapers That Fought City Hall." The article detailed the struggle which the two Utica, N.Y., newspapers carried on against city hall corruption, police department graft and criminal infiltration of the city.

The newspapers deserve credit for the job they did in uncovering this situation and won a Pulitzer Prize for "disinterested and meritorious public service."

It is always comforting to know that the press of the nation is working to maintain freedom and honesty at all levels of government.

Yet it is quite uncomfortable and highly disquieting to remember that these same newspapers which worked so diligently to uncover the situation were also present during the time that this same situation was being built up.

True, the newspapers, it was said, had warned about the situation as it slowly developed. But one wonders how hard they had worked to prevent this thing from happening.

One cannot prevent crime. One cannot eliminate graft. As long as there are humans in the world, these things will always be present.

County Highway Commission's Operations Should be Reviewed

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Mr. Empey of the State Highway Department of Wisconsin appeared before the Outagamie County Board, April 19, to refute charges made by the undersigned relating to the policy of Mr. Empey's department in the distribution of federal aid funds to counties for federal aid road systems.

Presumably Mr. Empey came as a guest of our highway commission to buy up an otherwise shabby defense they themselves would have had to present. As it turned out Mr. Empey's purpose was of a two-fold nature. Being a man accustomed to dictatorial methods, his demeanor was irritating. Secondly, he had come to save his old friends who could not fight the good fight themselves. Empey had come to campaign for the service organizations and campaign he did. It is my opinion that Mr. Empey's appearance before the board — at this session — was highly irregular, unwarranted, and totally inflammatory. It would be futile to elucidate how many statements he made and then denied, all in one breath. I would welcome Mr. Empey back under a prescribed set of rules that would be as favorable to us as his double talk was to the benefit of the highway commission.

As a co-author of the resolution with Supervisor Al Fischer "To Let to Private Bids" County Trunk O and Double UU projects, let me say that hope for its passage at this time would have required more faith than that of our fathers, especially when the higher levels of government espouse socialistic kicks.

"much the same as the highway department completes its projects," for cost. "We had written off a majority of the town supervisors since they feel that next to the need of God is the highway department. And some people never want to pay their own bills. But we had counted on making our entire presentation of all pertinent facts and figures, that took us three weeks to accumulate, without committee assignment or pay. The board would have had the benefit of a condensed version and a full scale orientation on the operation of the entire highway department. No one in our out of government should be afraid of the facts of life set before them.

Inasmuch as Mr. Empey and Mr. Brownson took up the entire morning with their presentation we had planned for the afternoon to review:

1. Complete cost of highway department.
2. Review of vaunted machinery fund, its income, expenditures, purchases.
3. County's cost of purchasing equipment vs. private contractor.
4. Material purchasing where we believe the county was being overcharged.
5. County road building: that phase where the county is the sole sponsor and payer.
6. Pictures of poor road building and graphs.

What supervisor on the county board is so well informed that he can ignore this information? The county government is a complex operation composed of many departments. To be efficiently administered, the people's representatives must be intelligently apprised of all facets and conditions. Good government needs eternal vigilance. A few hours of committee meet-

Looking Backward

River, Lake Boats in Operation

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for April 26, 1962.

The river boats commenced making regular daily trips to an from Fond du Lac on Monday last. The lake was cleared of ice Saturday.

Buck's boats, Fountain City and Bay City, together with the Railroad, will undoubtedly have enough business in the freight line for some time to come. Instead of the Road crippling the river trade, we think each acts as a supplier to the other. Should the times properly mend their ways, more boats will be necessary to do the work of the Fox River Valley for the coming season.

The Fountain City brought 14 tons of freight, including 4,000 bushels of wheat, down from Fond du Lac on Tuesday last.

You Need an 'Angel' To Seek State Office

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In Wisconsin today several hundreds of men and women are preparing to make campaigns for elective office in the fall balloting.

They are dusting off old speech notes, forming committees of their friends to promote their causes, planning to sacrifice their vacation time and otherwise working up schedules with varying degrees of skill and understanding of the nature of politics and vote-soliciting.

If these are the usual run of candidates, however, a substantial number of them will underestimate one of the increasingly important requirements of their self-chosen tasks — which is the campaign budget.

It used to be said that the most important persons in the campaign were the publicity officer, the treasurer, and the candidate, in that order.

The changing conditions of American life suggest that the order of listing probably must be revised to: the treasurer, the publicity man and the candidate.

MURKY

This is one of the gray zones of politics in Wisconsin and elsewhere in America. If anything, the problem elsewhere is more severe, although it is more candidly faced.

In Wisconsin there always has been a reluctance to face up to the relation of financing to politics, and thus a tendency to push under the rug a phenomenon that actually is recognized privately by politicians and parties of all persuasions. There is a fear that if too much of the problem becomes known to the voter in the ranks there may be a revulsion. Even today there is a temptation that some politicians cannot resist to accuse the enemy of over-spending and of "buying" votes.

In point of fact there are very few politicians today, among those who are serious contenders for public place, who can afford to throw stones. Even those who have inherited habits of viewing with alarm the use of money in politics, such as the liberal Democrats, are realistically acknowledging the facts of life.

It may be supposed that those rank and file voters who have ings a month, signing vouchers and a general meeting each month, checking pleasant feeding, doesn't make for a good supervisor, and in the end permits a few to run the entire show.

Eugene F. Kloes, 4th Ward Supervisor noticed the promotion publicity about the Democratic state party's $100 a plate dinner in Milwaukee next month, and the publicly expressed hope for an attendance of 2,000 at that affair, can add up the prospective receipts and come up with a figure of $2,000,000. It was not so long ago that such a sum would have had a scandalous ring to it. Democrats used to accuse the Republicans of being the money-bags for considerably less. Today there is hardly a lifted eyebrow to be observed.

HOW MUCH

The size of a minimum campaign budget involves many factors — the nomination problem, the strength of the party vote in any locality, the stature of the candidate, and vigor of the local party organization, and many others.

But the problem faced by the typical candidate for governor of Wisconsin, in a typical situation, may be illustrative, if disillusioning to those who are sensitive or old-fashioned in their values.

A man otherwise qualified by experience and stature and political party position, given a chance for a primary election fight as well as for a stout competition with the opposition party nominee, in the present partisan alignment of Wisconsin, would be foolishly indeed to make the venture without reasonable assurance of a campaign budget of $100,000.

If anything, that would be on the conservative side. Perhaps a $25,000 budget would be a reasonable sum, all other things being equal, for the congressional aspirant in the typical district.

The unsophisticated will gape at these estimates, no doubt. The sophisticated may worry privately about what they can imply. Yet they are facts of today's life, and cannot be wished away. The frontier ideal that every man is a potential officeholder has been eroded. Today he needs "angels."

That Male Mouse Now Has Offspring

Countdown Begun for Pacific Bomb Tests

Nov. 2 when Kennedy said the United States would go ahead with standby preparations for a resumption of atmospheric tests.

The tempo of preparations has increased since Kennedy announced March 2 that the tests would be started late this month unless the Soviet Union agreed to a fool-proof system for banning nuclear tests.

Swarms of military men, AEC experts and laborers descended on the hitherto lonely islands of Christmas and Johnson—the former a British possession close to the equator, the latter a U.S. island airfield southwest of Hawaii.

Shipping Warned

There the task force, supplied by ships and planes, has erected the facilities for hurling thermonuclear warheads into the edge of space, dropping them from planes, launching them in torpedoes and depth charges—and, equally important, trying out new explosive recipes for producing more nuclear yield from smaller packages.

By this morning, the scene was set. The warnings to shipping and aircraft to steer clear of the Christmas Island area had gone into effect 10 days ago. The Christmas Island's designated area is a rectangle 800 to 800 miles, to which a smaller (120 by 240 miles) rectangle adjacent area was added.

Circular Area

The Johnston Island area is circular, radiating out 470 nautical miles at the surface. It is an inverted cone, with a radius of 700 miles at an altitude of 30,000 feet. The warning deadline for Johnston is April 30. The peculiar shape of the Johnston Island zone indicated strongly that the big, high altitude (up to several hundred miles) shots may be lofted on rockets from there.

All this indicated that the first shots, perhaps to be comparatively small field tests aimed at gaining improved nuclear efficiency, will be made at Christmas Island, Kennedy, in his address of March 2, specified that the detonations would be conducted to seaward of the islands instead of on or over them.

Safety Stressed

Mindful of worldwide fears of fallout, the President emphasized safety for this new series.

He said by paying careful attention to location, wind and weather and by holding tests at sea it was intended to rule out fallout problems in the test areas and that radiation in the Northern Hemisphere would be held to "very low level."

Any fallout that comes down fairly soon from the new tests is expected to be limited mostly to a worldwide belt ranging from about 2,000 to 3,500 miles wide in tropics latitudes.

At least three of the tests are expected to be visible in Hawaii, hundreds of miles from the testing areas. Officials have promised that at least a day's notice will be given of any explosions that may be seen from the island state.

U. S. Objectives

The objectives of the new U.S. series generally are these:

1. Improve the explosive yield so that bigger warhead power can be carried longer distances without increasing the booster and missile size.
2. Explore the effects of very high altitude nuclear explosions to try to advance the antimissile program. A test explosion at an altitude of about 48 miles above Johnston Island in July 1958 and an earlier experimental shot at a lower level constitutes the only available data up to now. The weapons want to know more about the behavior of neutrons in an airless void and the transmission, if any, of shock waves.

Warhead Tests

3. Explore farther the effect of thermonuclear detonation on electronic equipment, to learn how extensive and for what length of time is radar "blacked out" by side effects of a nuclear blast. They also are interested in the possibility that neutron radiation could cause electronic computers to forget the guidance information cranked into missiles.

4. To conduct realistic tests of nuclear warheads on missiles. None have ever been fired this way by the United States.

5. Test new designs and perhaps configuration of free-falling and rocket-powered bombs delivered by aircraft.

6. Test naval nuclear weapons. The Navy now has nuclear warheads for torpedoes, nuclear mines and nuclear depth charges

Four-Year-Old Rita Robbins is held by her mother, Mrs. Esther Robbins, outside their home in Brooklyn, New York, Tuesday. Rita, missing from home overnight, was found in the basement apartment of a neighborhood artist. Police said the man claimed he found Rita on the street and gave her shelter. There was no evidence that the girl had been physically molested.

ability to stage a concerted fund drive, and faced with the payment "soon, but we don't know how soon," the committee last week turned to a professional money raising company.

It hired John Price Jones, Inc. of New York to stage a nationwide campaign.

"They are working for a flat fee," said committee secretary Ernesto Freyre, "not a percentage of what they raise."

The company has a three months contract and will be paid by the month—less each succeeding month. Freyre would not reveal the company's charges, "but it is being very wonderful about this," he said.

Teams of Prisoners

The company will "make teams" out of the returned prisoners and send them throughout the country for personal and television appearances.

Houston, Atlanta, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, St. Louis and Boston already are scheduled as tour stops.

The four committee members who conducted the negotiations with Castro have become the group's board of directors. Freyre and Senora Virginia Betancourt live in Miami and are the chieftains here. Sra. Betancourt also is a vice president of the committee.

Alvaro Sanchez Jr., chairman of the committee, maintains the office at 527 Madison Ave. in New York along with the fourth negotiator, Enrique Llaca.

The committee keeps "P.O. Box 574, New York 5, New York" to which only its bank and an armored car service has keys. Envelopes with donations will be opened in the bank's presence, the money deposited, and the envelopes forwarded to Miami commit-

U.S. Steel Must Boost Income, Blough Asserts

United States Steel at the moment with respect to any major change in the level of our prices," he replied.

Queried about the possibility of increases on selected steel products, as distinguished from an across-the-board hike, Blough said, "I didn't intend to convey any impression whatsoever with respect to that. I would say that is a matter which would have to be taken up in the future."

Accompanying the earnings report was declaration of a 75 cents a share dividend on common stock, the same payment directors have voted each quarter since the start of 1957.

This action put an end to speculation in Wall Street that a cut to 50 cents a share might be forthcoming.

Dividend Decision Waits

Blough declined any forecast on what directors may decide in the future on the dividend rate.

He turned aside several questions seeking expressions on the events of April 10-13 when the Kennedy administration mounted a mighty offensive to force U.S. Steel and companies that followed its lead to back down on the price rise.

In some cases, he said, he had spoken out before.

But he did credit the decision of Inland Steel Co. and some other firms against going along with having more influence than government actions in bringing about the retreat.

He said he opposed an administration suggestion for a special commission to survey the steel industry. Any such study, he said, should not be limited to just the steel business.

Wednesday, April 25, 1962 Appleton Post-Crescent A7

Blough said nearly $46.9 million of first quarter profits were allocated for common stock and preferred dividends and the remainder for retiring bonded indebtedness.

He said all sorts of undesirable consequences would flow from continued inability to set aside any earnings for reinvestment in the $4.3-billion corporation.

Ultimately, he said, inability to compete might lead to a reduction of jobs in steel and in the machinery business which makes equipment for the industry.

Saturn Shot Full Success

charge was ignited 160 seconds after launching, the 162-foot Saturn had completed its main mission—a check-out on the booster itself.

8 Engines Function

The eight powerful engines in the first stage functioned for about 115 seconds, pushing the 463-ton vehicle to an altitude of 35 miles. The engines then shut off as planned and the rocket coasted up to the point of explosion—which occurred some 50 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral over the Atlantic.

Two dummy upper stages were filled with water to simulate the weight of the upper assembly to be carried on future Saturns.

It was this 23,000 gallons of water which was spilled into the icy ionosphere in a secondary scientific experiment dubbed "Project Highwater."

By tracking the cloud and recording its action scientists hoped to gain further knowledge of the upper atmosphere.

Officials were jubilant. Two straight successes in the program have given added impetus to America's plan to race the Soviet Union to the moon.

The Bodies of six-year-old Paula Cram, above, and Stephanie Hanna, also six, were found stuffed in an unused refrigerator in San Fernando, Calif., Monday night. Police said a sex slayer murdered the children by placing them in the refrigerator after raping one and punching the other child in the jaw.

Combined Locks Board Okays Sewer Inspector

McMahon Engineering Representative Will Check Work in New Wallace Plat

COMBINED LOCKS — The village board Monday night authorized Daniel Wallace to hire a representative of the McMahon Engineering Co., engineers for the village, to serve as inspector on a sanitary and storm sewer installation project in a plat Wallace desires accepted by the village.

The board voted to require an inspector while sewer pipe were being laid to insure proper installation, helping to prevent problems to the community after the plat is accepted. Since Wallace contracted for the work, he is responsible for hiring an inspector.

Originally the board authorized the village street department foreman to supervise the work, but he said he was unable to handle the job since other duties at this time of the year made full time inspection work impossible.

Building Committee
Daniel Williams, village president, named himself and Arthur Vander Heiden, John Opsteen and James Williams, members of the planning commission, to a building committee to review all building permit applications.

The move was taken to insure construction in line with proposed zoning regulations which are currently being studied by the planning commission. Earlier this month a building permit for a used car lot and auto repair shop was disallowed after it was noted the structure was to be built in a residential area.

William DeGoey had been serving as building inspector, but since the village had no zoning ordinances, he granted the permit for the auto repair shop. After Daniel Williams received a petition signed by 80 residents opposing the building, he revoked the permit and, with the sanction of the village board, decided to set up a building committee to review all future building permit applications.

Some fabrics are the same on both sides and others are so nearly the same that either side may be used. If after careful examination you can't tell the difference, use either side. But be sure to cut all pieces on the same side because the difference might show up in a different light.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Don't get "all shook-up" over the fact that you're not a standard size, having measurements that coincide perfectly with a pattern. Not many women are. Just lift here, and fold there and all will be well. Anyone can alter patterns to fit the individual figure and overcome problems.

Q. Until I read your pattern alteration booklet, my clothes made me look malformed. I have one hip quite a bit higher than the other and as you can imagine, my skirts looked horrible. But now that I alter my patterns first, I no longer have that trouble. Can you tell me what to do with dresses already made? They are mostly flared skirts, and the lower hip side seems to droop. Can you help? Mrs. T. McC.

A. I'm glad you have the pattern problem licked. For the dresses, rip the bodice from the skirt. Lift the skirt at the waistline where the low hip is until you are happy with the way the skirt falls. Mark the new waistline, and mark the side seam if it must be adjusted. Put bodice and skirt together. Then be sure to check your hem length. It will have to be lengthened on the side you lifted.

Q. I have trouble making professional looking belt loops on dresses. Someone once showed me a method in which a type of slip-knot is used, but I forgot just how to do it. Could you please explain it to me? Mrs. W. K. A. Use a double strand of thread which matches your dress or belt. On the wrong side of the seam, fasten the thread to the lower edge of the belt line on the dress. Take several tiny stitches one on top of the other. Bring the thread through the hole and then pull another loop through, closing the first loop. Continue on doing this until the loop is slightly longer than the width of your belt. The needle isn't used while you are making the loops. Now, pull the needle through the last loop. Then fasten the end of the loop to the side seam of the dress above the belt. Bring the needle through from wrong side and secure with several tiny stitches (see illustration).

Q. How can I tell the right from wrong side of materials? Some are easy to distinguish, but

Needle Work

Don't get "all shook-up" over the fact that you're not a standard size, having measurements that coincide perfectly with a pattern. Not many women are. Just lift here, and fold there and all will be well. Anyone can alter patterns to fit the individual figure and overcome problems.

Q. Until I read your pattern alteration booklet, my clothes made me look malformed. I have one hip quite a bit higher than the other and as you can imagine, my skirts looked horrible. But now that I alter my patterns first, I no longer have that trouble. Can you tell me what to do with dresses already made? They are mostly flared skirts, and the lower hip side seems to droop. Can you help? Mrs. T. McC.

A. I'm glad you have the pattern problem licked. For the dresses, rip the bodice from the skirt. Lift the skirt at the waistline where the low hip is until you are happy with the way the skirt falls. Mark the new waistline, and mark the side seam if it must be adjusted. Put bodice and skirt together. Then be sure to check your hem length. It will have to be lengthened on the side you lifted.

Q. I have trouble making professional looking belt loops on dresses. Someone once showed me a method in which a type of slip-knot is used, but I forgot just how to do it. Could you please explain it to me? Mrs. W. K. A. Use a double strand of thread which matches your dress or belt. On the wrong side of the seam, fasten the thread to the lower edge of the belt line on the dress. Take several tiny stitches one on top of the other. Bring the thread through the hole and then pull another loop through, closing the first loop. Continue on doing this until the loop is slightly longer than the width of your belt. The needle isn't used while you are making the loops. Now, pull the needle through the last loop. Then fasten the end of the loop to the side seam of the dress above the belt. Bring the needle through from wrong side and secure with several tiny stitches (see illustration).

Q. How can I tell the right from wrong side of materials? Some are easy to distinguish, but

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 8 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

TEACHERS AS GUESTS

I have invited the teachers of my two young children to lunch one day next week. Would it seem as though I were casting my children aside if I let them eat their own lunch in the family room after they have said their how-do-you-do's to my guests? I should think that the teachers would prefer it that way.

Louise Davis Answers:

You are a very considerate hostess. Your idea is an excellent one. Primarily, the invitation is for a social visit and having your children absent from the table makes adult talk more pleasant. Furthermore, teachers usually want a respite from children and work during their lunch periods. As long as children are around, they are mentally "on duty." I'm glad you're giving them a break.

MAY BRIDE WALK ALONE?

My father died twelve years ago. I have no close relative or friend whom I care to ask to escort me down the aisle. I have never seen a bride walking alone, but believe you stated that it is permissible. May I have your confirmation?

Louise Davis Answers:

You have my confirmation. However, marching alone in the procession is a long and lonely stretch and I suggest that you be on the look out for a family friend to escort you, but not to give you away.

Workshop on Schedule

A Public Affairs and International Affairs workshop is scheduled during the afternoon of May 5. Participating will be Miss Hazel Williams and Dr. Milner. Final reports will be given at 3:30 p.m. and the District Board meeting will take place at 5 p.m.

An informal reception for Dr. Milner, Miss Williams, District Governor Miss Vivian Brown and Governor-elect Miss Eula Ekdale will be held before the 7:30 p.m. banquet. The Minneapolis Club will be hostess at the banquet, at which Dr. Milner will speak on "Where Are We Going in Altrusa?" New officers will also be installed.

All Clubs Participate

A memorial service has been planned at 8:30 a.m. May 6. The Minneapolis Club will conduct an 11 a.m. tour of the city.

District Seven is composed of seven states and two Canadian Provinces. These are Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, Manitoba, Canada and Ontario, Canada west of Sudbury. Forty-four clubs are expected to send 1500 members. All clubs participate in Altrusa International's projects of Grants-in-Aid to financially assist South American and Asian Women in graduate education, and Founders Fund, which provides funds for worthy women who need assistance in earning power.

Sloppiness Out, Tidy Look In

BY VIVIAN BROWN

The sloppy look is out and the tidy look is in.

Store counters are crowded with girls snapping up bright white gloves and feminine Sunday hats that will see them through church and dates. The most popular hat styles are bretons, cloches and pill boxes.

The neat teen-ager may not win any best-dressed awards but she'll be appealing in a dress, probably sleeveless, or suit. The shift, so stylish on young figures, is priced for budget pocketbooks whether its a woolknit, nylon, linen, cotton or rayon.

No, you don't need to be a well-heeled magician to achieve this tidy look. Much can be accomplished with soap. Toss your white sneakers into the washing machine.

The effectiveness of a chic suit will be spoiled if you wear it with a soiled blouse, collar or gilet. Purchase a wash'n'wear blouse. Dunk it after you wear it. Don't be tempted to wear it just once more before you launder it.

The same holds true of those white gloves.

And keep your underclothes laundered. A girdle and bra will last longer if they are washed after each wearing, otherwise body oils will weaken the elastic.

If you've been wearing a hair-do that resembles wilted spinach, give your locks a break and get a good haircut.

Tweeze straggly hairs around the arch. Never disturb the natural arch of your brow, however. Favorite shoe styles are patent leather moccasins in colors from vivid scarlet to buttercup yellow and royal blue. Gold loafers in smooth grained, crushed and brushed leather go to parties as well as picnics.

Boot shoes that rise half-way to the ankles are worn with tapered pants and leotards. And the "bowler", a flat style that takes its inspiration from bowling alley shoes, has the long, laced look.

Ambassador's Wife Says 40 Good Age for Woman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The slender smiling wife of the new Soviet ambassador makes no bones about the fact that she's 40—and happy about it.

"I don't feel my 40 years," said Irina Nikolaevna Dobrynin, apple-cheeked and pretty. "I think it is a good age for a woman. You can understand so much more than when you are younger. You think more deeply. Yes, it is much better."

Although they've been in their Washington post only five weeks, the Dobryns have spent seven of the last 10 years in this country, first on his assignments in Washington and later when he was an undersecretary of the United Nations.

Our Children

In-Laws Should Try Gracious Silence

BY ANGELO PATRI
In-laws of any description are no joke in family life. They can be, and often are, influences for good but occasionally they make no end of trouble and it is just too bad for all concerned. "I think we ought to take mother along. She hasn't had any vacation this year. We can take her easily, seeing we are only taking one of the children and the dog. What say, Rosie?" "Of course, Jim. Why not?" The party started in good spirits but that did not last long. Tubby, four years old, was restless. "Come on my lap and we'll play beaver," said his mother. "Now why do you do that," asked grandmother, fretfully. "Why can't he just learn to sit still like other people?" Just a Little Boy "He's just a little boy and gets tired," said mother patiently. Mother said no more but played beaver with Tubby until he laid his head on her shoulder and fell asleep. "There now, I just knew that would happen," said grandmother. "You have to hold that heavy child and he could just as well sit up and behave himself." "Put him down Rosie, for pity's sake. You'd think he was a baby." "And that's what he is, and he happens to be my baby," said mother with a edge on her voice that brought silence for the time. Stop For Gas

"I'll have to stop here for gas," said Jim, rolling up to a gas station. Out jumped the dog and made for a tree. "Get back there, you. What do you mean, anyway?" shouted Jim.

"Let him be a minute," begged mother, understanding the dog's need. Anyway the dog went right ahead and attended to business. "Why is it you always have to be contrary to Jim," asked grandmother.

"I don't know, I'm sure," said mother grimly, "unless it is my natural cussedness showing up in the presence of the angels."

That trip did nobody any good. Grandmother still thought of Jim as her son, who had to be right as a matter of course, who must be backed up in everything he said or did by his loyal mother. She forgot that her daughter-in-law had first place in Jim's life and that it was good family politics to boost Rosie and let Jim look out for himself. Failing that, silence was in order from a guest taken on a trip of pleasure.

Gracious Silence is Rare The gift of gracious silence is rare. Some people keep silent in a roar that can be heard in every corner of the house. Gracious silence is the expression of affection waiting for love to comfort and soothe all hurts. The in-law that has that gift is the best loved member of the family, welcome the year round.

Learning to mind one's own business is not as simple as it sounds, for it takes a discriminating, understanding mind to decide what is one's business but it is an art well worth acquiring. Once acquired, it is a priceless quality that makes its own way in the world of doubts and complexities.

A good rule for all in-laws to follow is: When in doubt, keep still. Keep still, anyway.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Is it possible that a dog will die if he is deprived of sleep for a long period of time? Bill Wright, Greensboro, N. C.

A. This is a question which I cannot answer with a straight yes or no. To prove or disprove this scientifically, a dog tires physically at about the same as humans. His brain is not quite as complex as ours and may not require as much rest to recuperate. Experiments with humans have shown that after long periods of wakefulness, the mind cannot function properly. We know also that, even when we are awake, the mind and body will rest for split seconds without our being aware that we have been "asleep". Even after extremely long periods without sleep, the body and brain can be refreshed with short periods of sleep.

(Dr. Moller will send books on pet care to readers submitting best questions. Mail yours on a postcard in care of this paper.)

Sheinwold! Know What To Discard

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We were put into this world to help one another. If you see a fellow bridge player struggling, do what you can to help him. Here's a typical case from the Men's Pair Championship in the national tournament held in Lexington, Ky., a few weeks ago. West opened the deuce of spades, and South played low from dummy in the hope that West had led from the queen. No such luck. East won with the queen of spades and returned the four of spades to dummy's king. South brooded over that four of spades. It indicated that East had started with four spades. Apparently West had opened a worthless three-card spade suit for lack of any clear indication of the best defense.

Tricks Hearts
South was tempted to begin the clubs while he still had the king of hearts as an entry, but he had an idea or two about the clubs. Instead, he tried the king of hearts and a heart finesse.

East won with the queen of hearts and led another spade back to dummy. South thereupon began to run the hearts.

What would you discard from the South hand on the third heart? Would you throw a diamond on the theory that you can't use a diamond but may have use for all five clubs?

First Discard
Don't forget that West opened from nothing and is still floundering, wondering about the nature of your hand. He needs your help, and you should give it to him — right between the eyes.

Your first discard should be a club. When this happened in the national tournament, West sighed with relief and discarded a club also. This enabled South to run four clubs after he had finished with the hearts.

As the cards lay, South's deceptive discard produced only an overtrick, but even confirmed rubber bridge players should not sniff at it. An early discard from a concealed suit will often trap an opponent, and the trick you win may be the trick that gives you the contract.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 10 7 4 H Q 9 3 2 D A 9 6 C Q 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You plan to raise hearts next, showing a hand too good for a single raise but not good enough for a double raise.

Wives Expected to Steal Shirts From Husbands

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Fashion designer Pauline Trigere has introduced her own designs in men's sports shirts which, she calculates, wives will snatch off their husbands' backs.

Miss Trigere has already wrapped her tie designs around the starched necks of so many status-conscious men that she is now one of the "big four" among prestige tie-makers.

And because men now have become used to this lady designer in their closets, men's wear manufacturers urged Miss Trigere to tack her label in an array of silk shirts that she presented for approval today.

Instead of a runway with male manikins parading in sartorial splendor, at this fashion show a cacophony of songs, dance, and gaslight histrionics hailed the gay nineties when men were men and still more fastidious about cut and color than women.

Everything in Place
Although Miss Trigere has been known to shift bosoms, waistlines, dip necklines and eliminate sleeves on female apparel at the slightest fashion whim, with men's shirts she left chests and waists where men have always had them, included a collar, and the number of sleeves they're used to.

She also ruled out décolletage by buttoning some shirts all the way to the Adam's apple, then covering the top button with a triangular patch that she calls a mascot. Shirts unbuttoned at the collar were worn with contrasting ascots that matched cuff linings, facings and often the model's slacks.

Fabrics were either solid rich hues, or pale, conservative stripes and plaids. On some shirts contrasting yokes back and front formed a T (for Trigere?). Shirts were usually worn chemise style (I.E., unbuttoned and hanging outside the trousers) with side vents and slit pockets.

Even Better on Women
Here and there in the show, black silk leg art (furnished by curvy show girls) was topped ever so briefly by men's shirts belted tightly to demonstrate how much more a feminine figure can do for anything, even a man's shirt.

Designer Trigere candidly admitted those bright-hued inner linings on some shirts were added to attract women, knowing they not only buy most of their husbands' sports shirts, but wear them as well.

However, her shirt designs are not sissy-ish, men's wear experts agreed. Appropriately dressed in a manish pin-striped jacket for her new design venture, Miss Trigere protested that the men in her life—husband, brother and sons—had been no help at all in teaching her the male viewpoint. "You know men. They only tell you what they don't like."

Lettuce Measure
Count on one cup of torn salad greens (fairly lightly packed) for each serving when you are making a chef's salad.

Kimberly Prom King, Queen Named

Raymond Maynard was named king and he selected Miss Mariann Fox as queen for the Kimberly High School Junior Prom to be held from 8 a.m. to midnight May 4 in the school gym.

Representing classes in the court will be William Timmers and Miss Mary Luniak, seniors; Thomas Bogenschutz and Miss Mary Ann Weyenberg, juniors; Terry Subert and Miss Barbara McDonald, freshmen, and Lee Levknecht, sophomore, who has yet to name a partner.

Theme will be "Blue Hawaii". Teachers supervising decorations and preparations are Miss Pauline Bachhuber, Miss Catherine Hohmiller, Charles Rundquist and Andre Rannev.

Student Committees
Miss Mary Gerrits and Miss Cynthia Thomas are co-chairmen of all prom arrangements. Miss Joyce Dietzler heads the refresh-

Simple Solutions to First House Mysteries

Young homemakers can easily cope with the mysteries of first-time home ownership by following a few simple rules when moving in.

First, both husband and wife should become familiar with the plumbing and electrical lines and equipment. Sooner or later, they'll have to replace a fuse or shut off the water in a hurry, and it will turn a big crisis into only a little one if they know in advance exactly what to do.

By unscrewing one fuse at a time, it's easy to determine and label which outlets are on which circuits.

Shut Off Water
When it becomes necessary to shut off the water, perhaps it can be done locally rather than cutting off the flow to the entire house. An advance inspection under sinks, lavatories and toilets and behind washing machines will reveal many shut-off valves that will save the day in an emergency.

It's wise to inspect the floors thoroughly before the homeowner moves in, whenever possible, or just afterward. The floor on which we walk is the hardest-to-keep-clean part of the house and special efforts should be made to assure it is easy to maintain and well protected in areas where spilling and silture may result.

Your Problems
Insomniacs Don't Miss Sleep
As Much as Talking About It

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it possible for a person to go several days without getting any sleep at all?
Almost every morning my husband will stumble out of bed and say, "I didn't close my eyes last night. I got absolutely no sleep."
I don't see how this is possible, but he gets very annoyed when I challenge him.
I had an aunt who had real insomnia. But this was quite a different thing. She used to walk around all night and never get into bed. She read everything she could get her hands on, baked pies and cakes, cleaned closets and did petit point. We know she didn't sleep because she accomplished so much at night.
My husband tosses and turns but he never gets out of bed. Is it possible that he sleeps a few hours and doesn't realize it? Thanks for any information you can give me. — CW
Dear C.W.: Not only is it possible that your husband is getting a few hours sleep every night but it's likely. Even bonafide insomniacs get some shut-eye, although often they don't remember and would swear on the family Bible they were up all night.

It serves no purpose to try to persuade such individuals that they slept. People who talk about their sleeplessness are in the same category with those who like to talk about their operations. They enjoy it.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for five years. His first wife died when their son was three months old.
We now have a boy and a girl of our own and are very happy. All three children look like my husband. We have never told the oldest child that I am not his natural mother. Frankly I see no reason to tell him now or ever. Why take the chance of upsetting him emotionally? Also, if his brother and sister knew, perhaps they would feel differently about him.
My husband thinks the boy should be told I say what people don't know won't hurt them. Do you agree? — No Boat Rocker
Dear N.B.R.: Your little motto is filled with fish hooks and booby traps. What people don't know often hurts them — and badly.
A child whose natural mother has died should be told his father has remarried. He should be told as soon as he can understand what words mean.

Parents who try to conceal information of this sort do their children an injustice. All too frequently the child learns from an outside source when he is half grown. When this happens the shock can be a devastating one.
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our niece attends a college which is a short distance from where we live. We have invited Debbie to spend some weekends with us because most college kids appreciate a break from dorm life. We've tried to make her feel at home but I'm afraid we overdid it.
Debbie was here for a weekend last month. The telephone bill arrived yesterday. It showed two long-distance calls which amounted to $13.30. No one in our family made these calls. They were placed on the days that Debbie was here.
My husband says the amount won't break us and that we should not embarrass her by piece dress with a slimmer over-bringing it up. I am annoyed and feel that she should be handed the bill and given a chance to make it right. What is your opinion? — Burned
Dear Burned: More is involved here than $13.30. If Debbie made these calls she displayed a shocking lack of integrity. By all means discuss it with her. If she made the calls she should pay for them.
If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request, 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Eastern Orthodox Easter This Sunday

Appleton Members Participate in Holy Week Services in Fond du Lac

Eastern Orthodox communities of the Appleton area will participate in Holy Week services in Fond du Lac, Wis., on Holy Thursday morning. The calculation of the date of Easter was determined by the first Ecumenical Synod at Nicaea in 325 A.D., which decreed "that Easter is to be celebrated on the Sunday following the first full moon occurring after the vernal equinox, but always after the Hebrew Passover." The Eastern Orthodox Church has adhered to this formula, although Easter in the churches of the West has not necessarily been preceded by the Hebrew Passover.
Members of the new Appleton Eastern Orthodox congregation will participate in Holy Week services at Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church in Fond du Lac, because they do not yet have a building of their own. The Holy Week schedule there includes the following services:
Sacrament Administered 7 p.m. Wednesday. The sacrament of Holy Unction is administered. This tradition is practiced in the Orthodox Church for all Christians who need to be baptized.
At the Ecumenical Patriarchate in Constantinople another impressive ceremony takes place every fourth year on Holy Thursday. This is the consecration of the Holy Myron used in the sacrament of Holy Chrismation (confirmation) which is administered at the baptism.
7 p.m. Thursday: The re-enactment of the Crucifixion is performed in the service of the Twelve Gospels Hymns chanted between the Gospel readings have as their theme the Last Supper, Christ's vigil in the gardens, the betrayal, seizure, and trial culminated by His Crucifixion.
7:30 p.m. Good Friday The service of the lamentations is a the myrrh-bearing women who representation of the burial of discovered the empty tomb on the first Easter morning. After this to preach His Gospel to all who had died before His coming. Worshippers hold lighted candles through the series of lamentations which express the sorrow of Christians that the Lord has died, the belief that He descended to Hades to abolish the power of Satan and the expectation of His Resurrection. Flowers adorning the representative bier of Christ are given to worshippers.

The Rev. Theologos Anastasakis, pastor of Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church, Fond du Lac, in the church are extinguished will be the celebrant of all Holy and a hymn chanted speaking of Week services.

Control Yourself When A Headache Makes You
Tense, Irritable

Take the Ingredients 3 out of 4 Doctors Recommend for Headache Pain. In Minutes — the Pain Goes, Also Its Tension and Irritability.

New York, N. Y. — It's a medical fact that pain from a tension headache can make people so irritable and highstrung they lose control of their tempers and take it out on those around them.
That's why tense, nervous headaches call for the stronger yet safer medication in Anacin®. Be sure it's Anacin you take because Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of ingredients Anacin goes to work instantly to relieve the pain and its tension and irritability. In minutes you feel "great" — in control again and all without tranquilizers or narcotics of any kind.
Here's why Anacin gives such fast, long-lasting and more complete relief. Anacin is different and contains extra ingredients missing in aspirin and still missing with buffering. Extra ingredients which 8 out of 4 doctors recommend and which many doctors themselves take when they have headache pain.
It's this big difference in Anacin (the extra medication) that makes the big difference in the way you feel. Anacin Tablets contain no narcotics, do not form a habit or leave one depressed. They do not irritate or upset the stomach.
See if the stronger yet safer medication in Anacin doesn't work better for you!

Seattle Fair Gives Impetus To 'Culture'

New Opera House, Concert Hall to Provide Variety

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The world's fair is giving Seattle a great cultural leap forward. All that other American cities need to follow suit is some imagination and several million dollars.

You had only to witness the Century 21 Exposition's opening night gala to sense Seattle's transition from a cultural backwoods to a potential Athens of the West.

It was quite a show, the cream of Seattle society, plus some skimmilk visitors, gathered in the massive new marble and cherrywood opera house to hear a concert that would do justice to any musical capital in the world.

Conducts Symphony
First Milton Katims conducted the accomplished Seattle Symphony through a Beethoven symphony. Then bushy-haired Van Cliburn ripped through a Rachmaninoff concerto in his histrionic style.

The glittering audience rose to cheer Igor Stravinsky as the crickety near-octogenarian walked gingerly to the podium. He conducted his Firebird Suite with vigor.

This was a dazzling start to what shapes up as the most culture-minded world's fair in history. The performing arts committee has combed the world for attractions such as England's Old Vic Company, India's Uday Shankar dancers, the Philippines' Bayanihan dancers, the Ukrainian State Dance Company, Foo-Hsing Chinese Theater, Le Comedie Canadienne, Royal Dramatic Theater of Sweden, and D'Oyly Carte Opera of England, etc.

Borge Appears
For the less long-haired there will be Victor Borge. Roy Rogers, Lawrence Welk, Count Basie, Benny Goodman, Ella Fitzgerald, Arthur Godfrey, even Yogi Berra and Huckleberry Hound.

What makes the Seattle fair impressive from a cultural view is the construction of magnificent new buildings to house the arts in future years. The opera house—actually an old civic auditorium that was gutted and rebuilt—may be the handiest in the United States. Soprano Mary Costa tells me she considers the acoustics the best she has ever heard. Built especially for the fair were a jewel-box playhouse that seats 800 and a spacious art museum. The 5,500-seat arena for ice shows and other spectacles was given a new front. The stadium, formerly for high school football, is adaptable for rodeos, water-skiing shows, etc.

The magnificent new Washington State Coliseum, almost four acres under a single, sweeping roof, can be converted to sports events and conventions for 18,000 persons.

Village Police Remind Citizens To Prevent Fires

KIMBERLY — The spring lawn cleaning season with its burning of debris led to a reminder of village burning regulations by Quentin Williams, chief of police.

Fires can be lit in the village between the hours of 3 and 9 p.m. and must be attended. Violators of the ordinance can be fined, said the chief. He asked cooperation of residents as many housewives are using the opportunity of spring weather to air out clothing and burning at odd hours leads to many complaints to police.

Railway Express Will Continue in 4 Areas

MADISON — The Public Service Commission has denied a request of the Railway Express Agency to consolidate services in four localities in Shawano and Waupaca Counties.

Denied were petitions to discontinue service at Shawano, Tigerton and Wittenberg, Shawano County, and Clintonville, Waupaca County.

A proposal to service these areas out of Green Bay would not provide reasonably adequate service, the commission said.

Flag Day Parade Set For June 16

The annual flag day parade will be held in Appleton on Saturday, June 16. An organizational meeting for the parade was held Tuesday evening in the city hall.

Co-chairmen Robert Liethen and Robert Mehlig said many marching units and floats already have been entered in the parade. Kenneth Loos, representing the Appleton City Council, said the city of Appleton will enter the city band, a city float and the Appleton High School band.

The winner of the Miss Appleton pageant will ride on a float in the parade, according to Dennis Herring, who represented the Jaycees.

Mehlig said that this year more 4-H clubs and scout troops will be encouraged to participate in the parade.

The next meeting is scheduled for May 7 in the city hall. Anyone interested in entering a float, band or marching unit in the parade is asked to attend this meeting.

Anthropologist To Determine If Bones are Human

A Lawrence College anthropologist, Dr. Ronald Mason, will help Appleton police determine if bones found beneath the Lawe Street bridge Saturday are animal or human.

The bones were turned over to police Tuesday by two Lawrence College coeds, Julie Ann McNeil and Mary Hail, who said they saw the bones floating in the river and pulled them ashore. They said they thought they were animal bones, and left them on the shore.

Tuesday, however, they decided to tell police of the discovery. An Appleton doctor said he did not think the bones were those of a human, but he would not say so specifically.

Gardening Spring Sign; Watch Out for Its Hazards

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M.D.,
State Health Officer

Take the warm, April sunshine, add a plot of freshly turned earth or the deepening green of grass, then mix with a waiting set of lawn and garden tools, and you have the answer to many a winter-time dream — the beginning of another home gardening season.

As a sure sign of spring, it provides plenty of reason for rejoicing. And why not? Gardening can be fun, and it's healthful. For many of us — especially those who work indoors — it offers the benefits of much needed physical exercise combined with the virtues of sunlight and fresh air. Nor must we overlook the satisfaction of creating, achieving, and, best of all, the rewards of its nutritious harvest.

Trouble, Too

But gardening also can cause a lot of trouble, even needless suffering when one fails to heed the time-honored rules of common sense.

This is why it's always best to begin with a determination to work your garden, instead of letting your garden work you. Overexertion often leads to accidents, and gardening is no exception. So why not plan your plot according to your age and ability and then start in gradually? You'll probably enjoy yourself more, too, by working a little at a time instead of trying to do everything in one day. And, of course, everyone knows it's wise to slow down on hot days or before you become overtired.

Use Gadgets Carefully

It's true that many of today's gardeners find the task a lot easier with the help of the new labor-saving gadgets, modern insecticides, and weed killers. But the blessings they bring also may be mixed with the menace of added safety hazards.

The wise gardener, though, knows the dangers of starting power machinery that's in gear, of removing shields from rotary type tillers, or of gassing a machine while the motor is running. He is also aware of the hazards of contact with spray or dust drift from insecticides or other chemicals and the importance of storing them out of reach of children. More important, he takes steps to avoid them.

Yes, gardening has all the ingredients of a happy, healthful pastime — and it takes just a little safety sense to keep it that way!

Charlie Reaches End of Will Study; Concludes We Ought to Draw One

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

If this minor department has been tedious on the subject of men's last will and testaments, it has a purpose: write your will but write it right.

There are basic methods to follow, so this corner is told by those who know; and the methods are reasonably simple. So simple, they are in fact, that such orderly men as William Penn wrote a will that was both tedious and useless. It was contested for years and it is still considered an example of how not to write a will.

Plain, clear and encompassing — that is what a will should be, and here — from six Wisconsin attorneys — are some of the prime principles:

1. Revolve previous wills if you have written them, and do it in no delicate manner. Some of us write our wills before we are married, and marriage invariably changes the elements of what the law considers right.
2. There should be, in a will, some specification for the cost of the funeral. It is also wise to specify where one wished to be buried, and how. Do that, when you write your will.
3. It is well to make a provision for the payment of your debts, and your executor should be empowered to pay them. You should name an executor — someone who knows you and is fundamentally efficient and, surely, honest. He should be empowered to sell and convey any portion of your estate — no matter how small. He should be clearly named.
4. You should make a provision, if you wish, for whatever bequests you have in mind, for friends, for your church, for your clubs or organizations.
5. Make suitable provisions for your husband or wife. Do it firmly and without foolishness because strange bequests for revenge or oddball bequests are almost always contested.
6. Create a residuary clause which picks up and disposes of any portion of your estate which your will has not already disposed of — like a hunting rifle, for example, which has some value to someone you leave behind.
7. Never forget your signature and the date when you write your will. If you live to be 65 years old and a will you have written at age 25 is the only available one, you will have omitted important facts: the date will tell the court that you have.
8. Don't forget witnesses. They'll have to sign the will to prove that you have written it and did it in good time and good sense.
9. It probably is not wise to leave behind you a method of revenge for wrongs committed against you during your life. Don't write in your will a clause like, "My son has ignored my wishes and has defied me, so I leave him nothing." It is entirely possible that this very son will inherit everything you leave because your attack upon him may appear neither judicious nor temperate.
10. Neither is it well to proclaim in your will that your wife is never to marry after your death for this is both unkind and narrow; and in any case it will not help you when you are gone from the earth.

(It is interesting to note that wives almost never leave wills which demand that husbands are not to remarry. But husbands often make this demand upon their wives.) If you make such a provision in your will, sir, it probably won't stand the test — in court.

If you have a great desire to leave your estate, whatever it may be to a school or a church or a group of any kind, it is well to specify this, and make it clear when it should go where you would like to have it go. One notable example is that a wealthy man had a great affection for his college. His will demanded that his money be left to that school after his wife died. But his wife spent his money so soon after his death that the college realized nothing. It wasn't what he wanted, but he was not orderly in his will and, consequently, his wife did nothing more than was her absolute right.

Get Help

It is wise to have legal help. One man who owned a vast amount of property in four different states — Michigan, Missouri, Wisconsin and South Carolina, died without knowing that South Carolina requires three witnesses, not two; and his property in the latter state was never distributed as his will requested.

Highway Fatality Toll Up to 200

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A second Darlington man died Tuesday night as a result of an auto accident in Green County earlier in the day. The death raised Wisconsin's 1962 traffic toll to 200 compared with 244 a year ago.

Michael Carpenter, 19, of Darlington, died at St. Clare Hospital in Monroe Tuesday night of injuries suffered when a car left Green County Highway Y between Monroe and Woodford and hit a large tree stump. Jerry Norton, 20, a Darlington airman home on leave, was killed in the crash which occurred early Tuesday morning.

Reds Worried By Common Market Plans

Kennedy's Alliance For Progress Also Gets Moscow Barbs

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Moscow is mounting two heavy propaganda offensives.

One is against the European Economic Community, or Common Market. The other attacks the Kennedy administration's Alliance for Progress program in Latin America.

The Moscow broadsides may herald much more direct Communist efforts to harass and impede the European integration movement and to sow confusion in the Latin American effort to produce stability through economic aid.

Dismaying Threats

Both movements represent dismaying threats to Communist expansion plans.

Moscow probably considers the Common Market by far the greatest menace, but heaviest Soviet propaganda guns are zeroed now on the Latin American alliance. That may be because more concrete action against the Common Market is being considered in the Kremlin.

The European development already constitutes a serious setback for communism. In cooperation with the United States, the Common Market can face Moscow with a vast aggregate of economic power and skill eclipsing that of the Red bloc. The implications of this can be of greater importance even than such trouble spots as West Berlin or Viet Nam.

Source of Worry

One major source of Moscow worry is a stepped-up effort to bring into being some of the political goals of the 1957 Rome treaty which gave birth to the Common Market concept. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is reported determined to beef up a drive toward closer integration by supporting measures leading to greater political unity. There are reports now that a compromise is in the making between Adenauer's views and those of French President Charles de Gaulle, who has been shying away from any idea of surrendering national sovereignty.

Present Common Market members are West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Britain, long aloof and skeptical, is represented as willing to accept the Rome treaty's implications. Other nations are clamoring to get aboard.

All this may eventually spur the Kremlin to action to avert what it must regard as a real threat to communism from West European political union. Moscow may turn to desperation tactics which could involve dumping such commodities as oil and gold, to a barrage of barter deals or perhaps even to more violent measures.

Orioles Tip Twins On 'Boog' Powell's Single in Ninth

Ty Cline Leads Indians To 3-2 Win Over Angels

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ty Cline, Cleveland's 22-year-old rookie center fielder, has shaken his slump and lifted the pressure imposed by a can't miss label and a tendency in the teepee to spell that last name C-o-b-b.

Using Chavez Ravine as the site for his war dance, Cline crashed three extra-base hits in a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night that kept the Indians in first place in the American League with their sixth consecutive victory.

The much-publicized speed merchant scored the Indians' first run after doubling, drove in the second with another two-base blow, then rapped a triple in the seventh inning to knock in pitcher Ron Taylor with the winning run.

It was quite a one-man show for the left-handed swinging Cline, after only two seasons in organized ball. His credentials include a .311 batting average at Mobile in 1960 and a .290 mark at Salt Lake City last season.

Cline now has five hits—all for extra bases—in his last 11 trips to the plate after failing to hit in his first dozen appearances.

Meanwhile, Baltimore stretched its winning streak to four with a 5-4 victory over Minnesota. Detroit blanked Kansas City 1-0 behind Don Mossi's four-hitter, the Chicago White Sox whipped the New York Yankees 3-1 and Boston bopped Washington 4-1.

Taylor pitching for the first time since he lost his debut after hurling 11 shutout innings, gave up only three hits before yielding to reliever Frank Funk in the seventh. Leon Wagner accounted for the Angels runs with a two-run homer in the sixth that tied it, and paved the way for Cline to provide the clincher.

Boog Powell's bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth drove in two runs and capped a four-run rally that gave the Orioles their win over the Twins. Jack Kralick checked Baltimore on one run and four hits for eight innings, but Joe Bonikowski, working in relief, took the loss. Milt Pappas staged his first route-going performance since a March 12 appendectomy. He allowed eight hits.

Rookie Beaten
Mossi beat rookie Dan Pfister, making his first major league start for the A's, in a stirring pitchers' duel. Going into the eighth, Pfister had the Tigers blanked on one hit, but Jake Wood's double and a single by Rocky Colavito brought in the only run of the game. Pfister wound up with a three-hitter.

Floyd Robinson's two-run homer in the eighth inning off Ralph Terry got the job done for the

Vike Golfers, Beloit Play To 7 1/2-7 1/2 Tie
The Lawrence College golf squad and Beloit hooked up in a dual match at the North Shore Country Club Tuesday afternoon that ended in a 7 1/2-7 1/2 deadlock.

Roy Johnson of Beloit took medalist honors in the match with rounds of 40 and 41 for an 81.

The next action for Lawrence will be in a quadrangular at St. Olaf College Saturday. Ripon and Carleton are the other schools.

Klubber '9' Will Be Organized Tonight
KAUKAUNA — Players interested in trying out for the Klubber baseball team in the Fox Valley League are to report to a special meeting of the Kaukauna Athletic Club at 7:30 today in the council chambers.

Marvin Miller has agreed to manage the team this season.

Mathews' Fifth Homer Is Decisive

MILWAUKEE (AP)—If all Milwaukee pitchers treated opponents the same as Warren Spahn, the Braves would be perennial world champions.

Spahn, an ageless wonder who celebrated his 41st birthday in quiet fashion Monday, defeated Philadelphia for the 11th straight time in hurling a 2-1 decision Tuesday night before another small crowd of 6,898 at County Stadium.

Unbeaten since May, 1959, in starts against the Phillies, Spahn evened his record at 2-2 for the season, while moving within six triumphs of Mike Welch, who ranks 10th among baseball's all-time winning pitchers.

The Braves, who have had trouble putting base hits and good pitching together in winning only four of 13 games this year, didn't give their ace southpaw much support. However, Spahn helped himself with a run-scoring double and Eddie Mathews came through with a decisive homer.

Slams Double
Spahn slammed his double to the 392-foot mark in left center in the third inning after Del Crandall had opened with a walk. Crandall, sidelined most of last season and supposedly slower afoot, easily came around as the Philadelphia fielders gave chase to the hit.

Spahn retired nine straight batters in order before Tony Taylor beat out a drag bunt between first and second leading off the fourth. Taylor was forced at second by Ted Savage, but Tony Gonzalez singled, putting runners on first and third. Spahn bore down to strike out Roy Sievers and get former teammate Mel Roach on an outfield fly.

Spahn gave up two more hits in the fifth, but was helped by an inning-ending double play. Another double play aided him in

Milwaukee Kegler Hits 836 Series

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ben Kolata bowled an 836 three-game series Tuesday night, including a 300 middle game in the series.

Kolata started and finished with 288 games, hitting 32 out of a possible 36 strikes in the three games. He finished his first game with six and added 12 in the perfect middle game for 18 in a row.

Kolata, 50, was bowling in the Greater Milwaukee All Star League at Serb Hall. His previous high three-game series was 803 in 1959. He won All-Star honors for the season with a 216 average.

The 836 was the fourth highest three-game series in the nation this season and the highest in the state. The nation's top individual score this season was an 855 by Elvin Mesger of St. Louis. The previous state high was 835 by Bob Mergener of Milwaukee.

Eagle Coaching Assistant Quits

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Charlie Gauer, assistant coach of the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles since 1954, has resigned to devote full time to his oil distributorship, Eagle's General Manager Vince McNally announced Tuesday night. No successor was named immediately.

4-Run Fifth Inning

Neenah '9' Rallies for 7-6 Win Over Kimberly

KIMBERLY — A 4-run outburst in the fifth inning brought the Neenah High School baseball team from behind and the Rockets went on to post a 7-6 Mid-Eastern Conference victory over Kimberly Tuesday afternoon.

Three hits and a pair of costly outfield errors by the Papermakers gave the Rockets the four runs in the fifth that put them in the lead. Up to that time Kimberly had a 5-2 advantage. Both teams scored a run in the sixth and the Papermakers threatened when pitcher Al Schmidt tripled with one out but failed to advance.

Rick Polman stroked a long home run for the Papermakers' sixth inning run.

Tesch was the starting pitcher for the Rockets but he was lifted in the third when the Papermakers erupted for five runs. Dennis Kroner and Art Wittman had back-to-back doubles in the Kimberly rally. Kroner's blast drove in a pair of runs.

Neenah took the lead in the second when Jan Pollnow doubled

Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Sandy Koufax set a new National League record for a day game by striking out 18 Chicago Cub batters in Wrigley Field Tuesday. Koufax is shown in action as Los Angeles won, 10-2.

Manty Outdistances North And AHS in Triangular Test

Four Terrors Win; North's Genzler Captures 3 Firsts

MANITOWOC — The strong mile and 220-yard dash, respectively North's Bill Genzler starred as the only triple winner. He placed first in both hurdles races and in the 100-yard dash. Manty's Gary Crites won both weight events, while the Ships' Dave Wagner won the broad jump and ran on both winning relay teams.

It was an excellent day for a meet, but the track itself was in poor condition because of a heavy dust cover. Consequently, many of the times were not outstanding.

The closest race of the day was between Schilling and Manty's Gene Grotbeck in the 220. Both were clocked in 24.1 seconds, but the speeding Terror was first across the finish line by an eyelash.

Hietpas was ahead all the way in the 880, and Nordgren won the mile without a great deal of trouble. Dave Schlegelmilch came in second, giving AHS a 1-2 finish.

Hilgenberg Gains Victory; Lambie Hits 3-Run Triple

KAUKAUNA — Despite being out-hit 14-10, the Kaukauna High School baseball team posted a 11-8 Mid-Eastern Conference victory over Shawano here Tuesday afternoon.

Steve Hilgenberg was the winning hurler for Kaukauna. He worked five innings and gave way to Tim Fernal after the Ghosts had built up a 11-4 lead. Hilgenberg struck out three and walked six. Fernal recorded two strikeouts and walked one in two innings.

The score was tied at 4-4 after two innings, but the Ghosts put it away with a single run in the fourth and six runs in the fifth.

Big blow of the fifth was John Lambie's triple with the bases loaded.

Ted Spurrier paced the Shawano hitting with three doubles in four times at bat. Lambie had a pair of triples for Kaukauna.

Sandy Koufax Fans 18 Cubs to Equal Strikeout Record

Dodgers Rout Chicago, 10-2; Pirates, Reds, Houston Cop

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these days Sandy Koufax will strike out 20 batters in a nine-inning game and people may recognize that the Los Angeles Dodgers southpaw is the greatest strikeout pitcher of modern times.

For the second time in his comparatively brief major league career, Koufax equalled the major league strikeout mark when he fanned 18 Chicago players Tuesday as the Dodgers routed the Cubs 10-2.

That gave the 26-year-old Brooklyn native a career total of 992 strikeouts in 990 innings, an average of better than one strikeout per inning.

No other pitcher in the history of baseball averaged a strikeout an inning. Not even Walter Johnson, the all-time whiff king of the majors, or such other strikeout artists as Bobby Feller, Rube Waddell, Lefty Grove and Christy Mathewson did it.

Pittsburgh won its 11th game in 12 starts, defeating San Francisco 7-3, the same score by which Cincinnati downed the New York Mets. Milwaukee defeated Philadelphia 2-1 and Houston shaded St. Louis 4-3.

Drive in 7 Runs
Tommy Davis and Duke Snider drove in seven runs between them as the Dodgers clubbed loser Don Cardwell and three relief pitchers for 12 hits. Davis drove in four runs with a home run and single. Snider batted in three with a home run and triple.

Koufax, fanning eight of the first nine batters he faced, finished with a flourish, striking out the side in the ninth for his third victory in four decisions.

Sandy's 18 strikeouts matched the record set by Cleveland's Bob Feller against Detroit on Oct. 2, 1936 and later equalled by Koufax against San Francisco on Aug. 31, 1959. This is a National League daytime strikeout record since Koufax's 1959 effort was achieved at night. Feller accomplished his feat in an afternoon game.

It marked the 32nd time in his career that Koufax fanned 10 or more in a game. Feller and Waddell share the record, each having struck out 10 or more 54 times.

The league-leading Pirates put five of their seven hits together for a five-run fourth inning against loser Juan Marichal as Al McBean registered his second triumph. He needed ninth inning help from Erloy Face. Catcher Don Leppert homered for the Bucs.

Four in First
The Reds scored four runs in the first against New York starter Craig Anderson and went on to inflict the 10th defeat on the Mets, who have won only one game. Cincinnati rookie Sam Ellis allowed PITCHING — Sandy Koufax, Dodgers, equalled modern major league strikeout record held by himself and Bob Feller, fanning 18 Chicago batters in 10-2 victory over Cubs.

BATTING — Ty Cline, Indians, rookie scored first run after doubling, drove in second run with another double and knocked in game-winner with seventh inning triple in 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Angels.

MENASHA — Menasha High School defeated Clintonville, 10-6, in a Mid-Eastern Conference game here Tuesday afternoon.

Menasha knocked starter Bob Beversdorf out of the box in the first inning but the loss went to Dick Postel, who worked the rest of the way. Dave Erdman, who relieved Tom Steinmetz in the fifth, received credit for the victory.

The Bluejays racked up 11 hits. On defense they were sparked by freshman shortstop Terry Haack, who made three outstanding grabs. The Clints picked up eight hits.

Clintonville leadoff man Bill Melzer socked a homer to give the visitors a temporary lead in the first frame, but the Jays came back with six on five hits and two walks.

Steinmetz Doubles
The Bluejay hit parade included singles by Bob Opsahl, Ken Stumpf, Erdman and Tim Leopold and a double by Steinmetz. The Truckers scored two in the second on two walks, a single by Jim Wisniefski and Dwan Etheridge's double. They tied the score at 6-6 with a trio in the fourth on Pete Smith's double, an error and singles by Jack Korb, Postel and Mick Nelson.

Tom Zeleske singled and scored on an error to give the Jays a 7-6 lead in the fifth. They came back with three in the sixth on hits by Opsahl, Zeleske, George Massey, Haack and Steinmetz plus a walk.

Winneconne's High School's Jay Boss pitched a no-hit game but lost it, 2-0, Tuesday afternoon.

Omro scored off Boss on an error in the third inning and on a balk in the sixth to take undisputed possession of first place in the Little Nine Conference's Western Division.

Omro's Bob Olszewicz hurled a 5-hitter, with two of the safeties produced by Edgar Day.

In other results, Hortonville topped Shiocton, 4-1, on a 2-hitter by Ken Schmelzel; and Wrightstown rallied to beat Hilbert, 7-6.

Wrightstown won its first Little Nine athletic contest of the year with a 6-run sixth inning rally highlighted by a pair of freshmen. The rally erased a 3-1 Hilbert lead.

Freshman Terry Ferron, who gave up only three hits in hurling the victory, opened the sixth with a triple. A single by Gary Roebke, two errors, two walks and two run single by frosh Dick Has produced five runs. Ferron drove in the sixth run of the inning with his second hit.

Another freshman pitcher, Francis Wolf of Hilbert, absorbed the loss despite 16 strikeouts in the 7-inning game. He gave up eight hits and walked five.

King of the Robinsons Nobody Getting Floyd Mixed Up This Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The woods are full of Robinsons these days. Jackie in the Hall of Fame. Brooks and Earl with Baltimore. Frank with Cincinnati. But Floyd of the Chicago White Sox is the Robinson of the moment after beating the New York Yankees Tuesday with a two-run homer.

It wasn't always like this. When Floyd came out of high school at San Diego in 1954 he signed a minor league contract with the Padres for only $500. Major league scouts took one look and said, "Too small." Floyd didn't get to the majors until the tail end of the 1960 season. He didn't become a regular until last May.

"Last time I was here half of the stories called me Earl," he recalled today. Nobody is getting him mixed up this year.

Searching for a No. 4 hitter during spring training, Manager Al Lopez settled on Robinson. The search was over. Floyd hit around .400 in the exhibition games and picked up speed when the season started.

"At first I didn't feel I should be hitting fourth," he said. "A clean-up hitter should be a little larger. I'm only 5-8 1/2."

"It affected me quite a bit the first week or so (you'd never know it from the box scores, for he was hitting .500). Then I decided I just was not a home run hitter. After all, we're not a power club. I just kept to my own style." (Like hitting a ball into the right field, bleachers at Yankee Stadium.)

Floyd's "own style" has been sensational. He is hitting .469 with 23 hits in 49 at bats. He leads the American League with 21 runs batted in.

A fellow asked Robinson if he thought he could lead the league in hitting.

"There are too many good hitters," he answered. "I'd like to finish in the top 10. Let's say it is not impossible but very improbable."

Robinson's biggest day to date was his seven runs batted in against Minnesota April 17. He had a homer, two doubles and a single.

"A year ago he was our No. 4 outfielder, now he is our No. 4 hitter," said Lopez. "He can run, has pretty good power and he doesn't strike out. He hit a home run over the left field wall (wrong field for a left-handed hitter) off Camilo Pascual. Sure, he has a chance to lead the league."

against St. Louis and ex-Cardinal outfielder Don Toussig homered in the sixth, off loser Larry Jackson, for the clincher. It was Woodchuck's second victory without a defeat and Jackson's first loss in three decisions. It was the Cards' third straight defeat since winning their first seven starts.

the seventh. Then, in the Braves' half, Mathews unloaded his fifth homer, a towering shot into the stands in right.

Mack Jones, Milwaukee's rookie right fielder, saved Spahn in the eighth. With a runner on first and two out, Jones ranged back to the wall in right center and made a tremendous leaping grab of a drive by Savage.

Six Strikeouts

Spahn, with six strikeouts and only one walk, appeared to have his 56th National League shutout wrapped up in the ninth when he retired the first two batters. However, Roach singled to center, went to third on Don Demeter's harsh safety off Mathews' glove and scored as Sammy White, a 1961 catcher for the Braves, lined a single to center. Spahn then ended the game by getting Sandy Amaro to tap back to the mound.

The loss was charged to Philadelphia starter Art Mahaffey, who allowed only four hits before being lifted for a pinchhitter in the eighth. Mahaffey now is 2-2.

The Braves and Phillies meet again tonight with right-hander Ron Piche making his first 1962 start for Milwaukee. Piche is due to be opposed by southpaw Chris Short, who also is 0-0 for the year.

Vike Netters Score Sweep Over Beloit

Lawrence College netters swept to a 9-0 victory over Beloit here Tuesday, for its second success of the season.

Tom Krohn started the sweep by winning the No. 1 match from Beloit's Tom Powell, 6-2, 6-2. Art Voss scored a 6-2, 6-1, win over Jim Burnham and Al Blackburn whipped Neil Hopkins, 6-1, 6-1.

Beloit's Bill Heck extended Paul Lange to three sets but lost, 6-1, 6-8, 6-1. Pat Jordan defeated Bob Birchfield, 6-1, 6-2, and Jon Keckoren finished the singles action with a 6-1, 6-2 win over Andy Bosel.

Krohn and Jordan teamed to beat Powell and Burnham, 6-3, 6-6. Blackburn and Voss topped Hopkins and Heck, 6-2, 6-1. Fred Flom and Tom Schunabeck downed Birchfield and Bosel, 6-3, 6-4.

Wisconsin Indoor Team Edged by Colorado, 62-60

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—The University of Wisconsin's Big Ten indoor track champions were outdistanced in the final two events Tuesday and defeated 62-60 by Colorado University.

The top Badger performance was by Elzie Higginbottom who set a Wisconsin varsity record in winning the 440-yard dash in 46.7 seconds after a strong challenge by Colorado's Jim Heath who was a stride behind and clocked at 46.9.

The Badgers led 60-40 with two events remaining, but the Buffaloes finished 1-2-3 in the two-mile to set the stage for their triumph. Bob Griffith, who had won the mile earlier, finished first and was followed by Dick Faust and Mike McCoy.

In the final relay, Dick Burns got Colorado a quick lead and Wisconsin never caught up as Olympic sprinter Ted Woods finished six yards in front of Higginbottom, Wisconsin's anchor man.

Casey Poses for Beer Ad, Gets Verbal Wrist Slap From Frick

NEW YORK (AP)—The Casey Ol' Case already holding the base-Stengel-beer advertising incident was on ice today.

The New York Mets manager was $500 poorer, had been given a verbal slap on the wrist and taken out for pinch hitter Kathy Kersh.

The whole incident came to light Tuesday when it was learned that Stengel had been fined and reprimanded for posing in a base-uniform for advertisements (the ball. It's behind him in the radio and television broadcasts. "But everything's been taken care of now," said the commissioner.

"In future ads the bat will be in the girl's hand, and Casey will be out of the picture."

Podoloff Will Retire in Year

No Mention Made of Successor For NBA Head

NEW YORK (AP)—Maurice Podoloff, the roly-poly czar of professional basketball, is going to retire at the end of next season because, he said today, "There are a great many things I want to do."

The cigar-smoking Podoloff, born 71 years ago in Russia, has been president of the NBA and its predecessor, the Basketball Association of America, since 1946.

"I have had over a quarter of a century as an administrator in professional sports," he said. "Now I'll have the opportunity to realize some of my unfulfilled desires."

Podoloff made the announcement of his pending retirement Tuesday at the opening session of the two-day board of governors meeting of the NBA. There had been talk of Podoloff quitting for a long time.

There was no talk of a successor.

Podoloff, who packs 170 pounds on his 5-2 frame, probably was responsible more than anyone else in developing professional basketball into an organized spectator sport.

"I don't want to take credit for the improvements and accomplishments that have made the NBA a big-league outfit," he said. "The best way to say it is that some good things have happened during my regime."

Ninth Inning Breaks Help Koufax Tie Mark

Becomes First to Fan 18 Batters Twice in Majors

CHICAGO (AP)—Sandy Koufax gets mad at himself when he throws a bad pitch. Because of this, the Los Angeles southpaw Tuesday became the first pitcher to twice strike out 18 batters in the major leagues.

Koufax pitched the greatest baseball in his career through the first three innings of the game which the Dodgers won from the Chicago Cubs 10-2.

Yet, he needed two ninth inning breaks to equal the modern record of 18 strikeouts which he previously shared with Bob Feller, the Cleveland fireballer who established the mark in 1938.

First, Billy Williams led off the Cub ninth with a home run and this so infuriated Koufax that "I really started pumping. It was a bad pitch, a curve which hung high and inside."

Koufax pumped so hard that he made Bob Will and Elder White strikeout victims to run his total to 17. Then came another break.

Lost in Sun

Moe Thacker hit a pop fly for what should have been the game-ending out but first baseman Tim Harkness lost the ball in the wind and sun and it dropped for a single, Chicago's fifth hit. Koufax then fanned pinch batter Moe Morhardt to end the game.

"I had no idea of any strikeouts," said Koufax, whose 269 records last season set another modern National League record. "I was surprised to see the whole team pour out on the field to shake my hand."

Koufax struck out nine of the first 10 men he faced, getting the side out on strikes in both the first and third innings.

"I don't think I've ever pitched as well as I did in those three innings," said Koufax in trying to recall the night he fanned 18 San Francisco Giants on Aug. 31, 1959.

"It was a different type of game. We finally won it but were behind most of the way. Here I had a big lead and I wanted to get them out and get the game over with. When they hit the first pitch and make out, it's a lot easier on me."

Koufax threw 144 pitches but was worried when he appeared to be faltering in the fifth inning. A double by Williams and three walks led to Chicago's first run.

Conservation Unit Attacks State Rule

Horicon Marsh Policies Major Source of Irritation to Congress

WAUTOMA — Waushara County's hunters and fishermen declared an open season on the State Conservation Department here Monday night, directing their heaviest barrages on Horicon marsh operations, the growing trend toward "commercialization" of Wisconsin's woods, field and stream sports, and dwindling "home rule" by sportsmen.

Underscoring the meet was an undercurrent of dissatisfaction with conservation on area and state levels, some voiced, others intimated.

Meeting at the court house, the county sportsmen went on record favoring a '62 closed season on geese in a three-township area surrounding the Greenwood Goose Refuge in the towns of Hancock and Deerfield.

Fix Dates

They also recommended that the state department fix the season's opening date on all upland birds and waterfowl to be concurrent. The Waushara group also asked that the catching of mayflies and other aquatic insect larvae, now prohibited, be permitted in Waushara County streams. A 300 possession limit was suggested.

Arthur Johnson, Wautoma, and M.O. Smith, Pine River, were elected county representatives on the Wisconsin Conservation Congress.

Vigorous and outspoken charges were voiced as to what was declared to be multiplication of hunting and fishing restrictions and limitations; the "commercialization" of the Horicon wildlife refuge; the futility of Waushara sportsmen being asked to pass on game measures not locally applicable and of which they had no reliable knowledge.

Clarence H. Martin, Pine River postmaster and longtime conservationist, advocated that powers to make fish and game rules be taken out of the hands of the Conservation Commission and returned to the legislature and governor.

Martin complained of the want of "local autonomy" on the part of hunters in deciding what was most advantageous for their own areas, and called stoutly for a greater measure of "home rule."

Commenting on the 20-page questionnaire presented the anglers-hunters, dealing with matters not pertinent to this area wildlife, Martin observed:

No Reason

"I can see no reason why the Commission feels that some of these questions are pertinent to this group. For example, we know no more of what is best in passing on proposals for far-distant Pierce, Vilas or Burnett counties than the man from Milwaukee knows about the deer season in Waushara County."

Edward Dewitz, of Hancock, joined in protesting what he characterized as "more and more restrictions, limitations and regulations" on local sportsmen.

Others who raised voices to protest and object to aspects of regulations of hunting and fishing, included George and Harlan Clark, Red Granite, and George Inda, Auroraville.

However, Horicon marsh, the federally owned, state operated waterfowl refuge, came in for the heaviest attacks.

"Horicon started out as a refuge, now it's shaping up as a shooting gallery," George Clark contended. Wautoma's Arthur Johnson struck out at what he viewed as injustices and "flub-ups" in Horicon operations, and what he said was the move to put the refuge on "a profit plus cost" operational basis.

Action Taken

Among actions taken by the Waushara Conservation by a show of hands, the following propositions were approved:

1. Regulations permitting motor boat trolling for fish on Green Lake and Lake Winnebago and outlying Mississippi River and Wisconsin-Michigan boundary waters.
2. Establishment of a concurrent, same date, season opening for catching trout, walleyes, northern pike and like warm water species.
3. Simultaneous fall opening dates for duck and goose hunting, on a statewide basis, not excepting Horicon marsh refuge areas. The group voiced strong objection to separate and special opening seasons on geese and ducks in Horicon.
4. Voted unanimously for a '62 closed season on quail, after being informed that the extreme cold of last winter resulted in "more than a 70 per cent" loss in quail population in Waushara County.
5. Went along with a '62 one-buck, 3-inch spike deer season for the area, similar to the 1961 regulations.

Waushara conservationists voted down a proposition that all tips used in ice fishing must bear the name of the user or owner, and against setting a limit on catches of panfish.

Also voted down was the issue of increasing from $3 to $6 the blind fees at the Horicon refuge. A tie vote resulted on limiting to six the number of shells which could be fired by any hunter at the Horicon refuge.

Shawano Judge to Serve Despite Age

John Reynolds Says Fischer Won't Have to Retire Until End of Term

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Judge Robert H. Fischer of Shawano is legally qualified to serve as judge of Branch 2 of the Shawano County Court although he is more than 70 years of age, the normal age for retirement of judges of the state courts, Attorney General John W. Reynolds ruled in an official decision today.

Reynolds was asked to start a proceeding under a little-used state law, called a quo warranto proceeding, to disqualify the Shawano magistrate.

The petition came from Jack J. Schumacher, Shawano lawyer and a member of the state conservation commission. Schumacher cited a statute holding that persons of 70 years or older are prohibited from holding office as county judges.

Schumacher said the incumbent judge was 71 years of age when he took office in the newly created court branch last January.

Reynolds rejected the petition for removal action, pointing to another law adopted by the 1961 legislature which the Shawano County Municipal Court, in which Judge Fischer formerly presided, was renamed and reconstituted Branch 2 of the Shawano County Court, in a general reorganization of the state trial courts.

"It appears to be the clear intent" of the legislature, said the state's chief legal officer, "that the individual who was the judge of the Municipal Court of Shawano County on Jan. 1, 1962, should serve as the judge of the county court until the term for which he was elected expires and that he should be paid the same compensation in the same manner as regularly elected judges."

Reynolds pointed out that the former Municipal Court did not become the County Court of the county until Jan. 2, 1962. Accordingly Judge Fischer was the incumbent Municipal Court Judge on Jan. 1, "and seemingly is entitled to serve as judge of Branch 2 of the County Court of that county until the term for which he was elected as judge of the municipal court of Shawano County expires."

Will Serve

The apparent result of the attorney general's ruling, unless it is challenged, is to hold that Judge Fischer can continue to serve in the county court until 1966, or until he is 75 years of age.

Judge Fischer practiced law in Shawano County for many years before he was named to the Municipal Court. Like Schumacher, he has served as a member of the state conservation commission. He was a member in the Philip F. LaFollette administration more than 20 years ago. Schumacher is an appointee of Gov. Gaylord Nelson.

John M. Hayes, general campaign chairman, spoke at the meeting of the commercial section.

How Appleton Picks Texts Described

Noting growing public concern over the selection of textbooks, Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz explained the methods used in selecting texts to the Appleton Board of Education Monday.

Textbook selection is more than just an evaluation of the book, he explained. It is tied in with evaluation of the program, which should be continuous, he said. In a maximum of five years after adopting a book other textbooks should be considered.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools William H. Spears explained the procedure now being used by curriculum study committees in the selection of textbooks.

It is tied in with a total study of that curriculum offering, he said. The building principals select teachers interested in a particular field to work on the committee, with teachers from each grade level and each school represented.

Photos Submitted By Appleton 'Y' Win Recognition

Two pictures submitted by the Appleton YMCA won third place and honorable mention prizes in a national Hi-Y Photo Contest.

The pictures were published in "National Hi-Y Ways," a monthly publication for leaders and officers of the 6,700 Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs in the country.

The $25 third prize went to a picture of Inter-Club Council members looking at a map which shows the extent of the YMCA World Service program, after a peanut sale which raised $500 for World Service.

A picture of a progressive holiday dinner party for the Pandora Junior Tri-Hi-Y Club won a $10 honorable mention prize.

Pictures were judged on both the excellence of the photograph and the nature of the project.

Both photographs appeared originally in the Appleton Post-Crescent.

Soviets Pretend to Reduce Income Tax

BY PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Income taxes are dying out in the Soviet Union, but the American struggling today with form 1040A should not conclude that the U.S.S.R. is a taxpayer's paradise. Taxes are inescapable in the Soviet Union as elsewhere. The abolition of the income tax, proclaimed by Premier Khrushchev, is an adjustment in methods. The income tax has never been an important source of Soviet revenue, bringing in only 7 per cent of collections. By 1965 it will be virtually ended except for a limited number of people. Artisans, such as the few cobblers, and lawyers and doctors with private practices, will continue to pay a tax of 18-43 per cent on earnings even after 1965. On wages and salaries, income tax is going down year by year. Lower brackets—persons earning the equivalent of $40-60 monthly —already are exempt; there are a large number in the U.S.S.R. in that category. Other taxes lie hidden in the prices of everything people buy. Taxes are especially heavy on consumer goods. Some examples: A Soviet-made Moskvich automobile, about the size of a Volkswagen, is sold overseas for the equivalent of $1,400. In the U.S.S.R. the price is double that. A pint of Soviet vodka can be bought in Denmark for the equivalent of 81 cents, including tax. But when Ivan Ivanovich wants a nip, the same bottle in the U.S.S.R. costs him the equivalent of $3.50. Tax is the answer. It is particularly heavy on alcoholic beverages because the Communist party is trying to discourage drunkenness.

The government owns everything so practically everybody works for the state. Probably that is why income tax is being abolished. The state fixes salaries, so it makes little sense to stipulate a salary and then take back a stated amount of it in tax. In the process of abolishing the income tax, the Soviet government is increasing salaries in the lowest brackets and cutting those in the highest. This amounts to increasing the income at the bottom by the equivalent of a few dollars monthly and imposing an additional tax at the upper levels, even though those are not high by Western standards.

Assassins Murder 2 Turkish Publishers

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Gunmen assassinated the two publishers of a Turkish-language weekly newspaper Monday night. The two had announced they were about to publish names of two Turkish extremists who planted bombs in two Nicosia mosques last month. Ayhan Hikmet, 33, was slain by gunmen who invaded his bedroom and killed him in front of his wife. The body of Ahmet Mouzafer Gurkan, 36, was found in his car outside his home. Their paper, Cumhuriyet, is the only Turkish-language paper that opposes the leading Turkish Cypriot party.

Letter Writing Really Expensive

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The average cost of each business letter written by the average salesman in the United States today is up to a startling $1.97—an all-time high, 68 per cent above $1.17 cost of an identical business letter in 1953 and 14 per cent higher than the cost of the same letter as recently as 1960.

Porter

What's more, this average—to be disclosed soon by Dartnell Corp. in its privately circulated Office Administration Service and its revised Office Managers Handbook—is based on what appear to be exceedingly modest estimates of salaries. Dartnell, for instance, places the salary of a "good sales correspondent" at $125 a week and of a secretary able to take dictation as well as type at $76 a week. Judging by the salaries of "good" executives and "competent" secretaries I know, the estimated cost of a single business letter by a top management man might be almost doubled.

and still not be an undue exaggeration.

Shocking Total

Conservative as the $1.97 figure may be, it is shocking enough when you multiply it by the thousands or tens of thousands of letters sent out each year by the typical business concern, the total expense becomes far more enormous than most businessmen suspect.

Thus, Dartnell's analysis of cost and its advice on how big size paper, gang printing of chunks can be cut from it should office letterheads, office printing equipment.

breakdown: Dictator's time: average cost, 35 cents. This assumes the person dictating gets $125 a week for 40 hours and spends seven minutes on each letter. A saving of 10 per cent could be made by a campaign to shorten letters, equipping executives with dictating machines and use of form paragraphs.

Stenos, Too

Stenographer: average cost, 76 cents. This assumes she gets $76 a week for 40 hours and averages 20 letters a day. Here, 33 man with sense enough to understand that, in this era of fierce competition, control of all costs ments, use of transcribing and photocopying machines, electric typewriters, efficiency desks and chairs, adoption of a bonus plan. Nonproductive labor: average cost, almost 17 cents. This covers time lost by executive and stenographer due to waiting, illness, vacations, similar causes. Efficient equipment reducing number of employees needed could cut this by 13 per cent.

Fixed charges: 44 cents. This covers overhead, and Dartnell estimates 30 per cent could be saved by centralizing correspondence departments, thereby reducing floor space, and by labor-saving devices.

Materials: 8½ cents. Included in this category are stationary, carbons, typewriter ribbons, the like. A saving of 15 per cent could be achieved by use of smaller cost and its advice on how big size paper, gang printing of chunks can be cut from it should office letterheads, office printing equipment.

Mailing: 11 cents. Modern sealing and stamping machines would cut this 20 per cent. For the machines not only would save labor but also would reduce losses due to pilfering of stamps.

Total—49 Cents!

Filing: 5½ cents. Centralizing of files and modernization of filing equipment and methods would save 15 per cent on this item.

These savings could slash a hefty 49 cents from the $1.97 cost of each business letter, Dartnell declares. That's a reduction big enough to impress any business- man with sense enough to understand that, in this era of fierce competition, control of all costs

Science Shows Problems in Life of a Rat

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A tricky virus, rats on the loose and why things stick together are subjects for science at Work. One Man's Cold The same virus that causes a type of severe cold in humans has been found to cause tumors in hamsters. The culprit is an adenovirus, first isolated by researchers tracking down the epidemics of colds that beset soldiers early in barracks life. But in rats, one type of adenovirus (adenovirus 12) has caused cancer in hamsters when injected into the lungs, say Drs. John J. Trentin and Yoshiro Yabe of Baylor University. The longer cancers are highly malignant, sometimes spread to the liver and can be transplanted into other animals.

Brother Rat? Male rats drink more alcoholic beverages than female rats, once they have been introduced to drinking. So reports Margaret L. Clay, University of Michigan psychologist. In seeking clues to alcoholism, she made drinkers out of laboratory rats, animals normally teetotalers.

Young rats, born to parents of flexible behavior, tended to drink more than rats born to parents with a more rigid behavior, Miss Clay said. Behavior was determined by tests.

The rats did more drinking when faced with distressing problems. But rats failed to become problem drinkers. In the first place they wouldn't drink enough to become stuporous. And second, "Is they wouldn't go too far out of their way for a drink if it was difficult to get.

of colds that beset soldiers early in barracks life.

Now U.S. soldiers are given a vaccine to protect them from the colds and the virus. The virus is only known to cause cold-type symptoms in humans. There is no evidence it causes cancer.

Carlisle Runge May Have Yearned For Home During Committee Blast

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Former Wisconsin University law professor Carlisle P. Runge, now top-draw-er in the Pentagon, may have had nostalgic yearnings this week for the good old days in Madison when students listened respectfully to his lectures and didn't turn the classroom into a modern version of the rack, with himself cast as the victim.

For "on the rack" Runge was when the House Armed Services Subcommittee tore into him on alleged mistakes made by the Department of Defense, of which he is the assistant secretary for man-power, for its treatment of National Guard and Reserve personnel.

Wise, and asked him what he was going to do to prevent future similar mistakes.

By-Passed Congress

Specifically, Chairman F. Edward Hebert, (D., Louisiana) charged that the Pentagon had "by-passed the Congress" when it neglected to consult two congressionally-created advisory boards on national guard and reserve policy boards before calling the guard and reserves into active duty.

Runge had admitted to Hebert that no such consultation had been sought, but denied that there was any by-passing involved. However, the chairman stuck to his guns.

"If you didn't consult these boards, as required by law, you by-passed them and the congress which authorized their existence," Hebert retorted.

Misuse of Fillers

Then Runge faced the firing line on the use, or alleged misuse, of "fillers" during last year's National Guard activation. Hebert charged that "fillers" were called in first, regardless of their previous record of active duty.

The congressman's complaint followed one filed earlier this week by the comptroller general. He charged that "fillers" were used on assignments for which they had no experience nor training thus wasting manpower and federal funds.

Pill Gulping New Symbol Of Civilization

BY HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The medicine cabinet has become the hope chest of civilization.

A man is no longer judged so much by the number of pills, potions and lotions he stocks in his bathroom storehouse of health and beauty.

There was a time when a bathroom was a place where you went to take a bath. Today a bathroom is a combination clinic, drugstore and beauty parlor.

"The desire to take medicine," said wise Sir William Osler, "is perhaps the greatest feature which distinguishes man from animals."

Medicine used to be merely the candy of the middle-aged and the elderly. Now it has become a compulsive passion with us, and we all seem to be in the grip of a kind of pharmaceutical voodooism.

We no longer take medicine merely to cure what ails us. We

Discounting Will Capture Major Share of Retail Field, Merchants Learn

Head of 16-Store Chain Declares That Marginal Retailers Will Lose

No matter what retailers do of the population who will buy to stop it, discounting will capture what discounting has to offer—a dominant position in the low prices, large stores in low retailing field, the president of a rent areas, volume sales, price, large discount store chain told 157 merchants from Northeastern Wisconsin Tuesday.

Marginal retailers will die as the discount movement grows, Stanley Rosenweig, who leads G.E.M. International, a 16-store discount chain, told the Sales and Marketing Executives Club of Northeastern Wisconsin and other merchants Tuesday night at the Conway Motor Hotel in Appleton.

"The stronger retail stores will continue to make a profit," he said.

Attendance was unusually high. Many merchants who are not members of the sponsoring club were there. Rosenweig kept his talk short, but answered over 100 questions later.

Moving Fast

Rosenweig explained that discounting is moving so fast that no one really knows its exact course. Department, variety, drug, supermarket and other chains are moving into the act, he said. He said the situation would begin to settle within 36 months, when all major stores will have decided to get into discounting or stay out.

"You must readily agree that the dynamism in retailing today belongs solely to our segment of retailing," the discount executive said. He explained that discounters have found a healthy segment

Pickets Out at 10 Kroger Stores in Midwest Cities

CHICAGO (AP) — Picket lines have been established before Kroger Co. stores in 10 Midwest cities in support of a strike by the Retail Clerks Union in the Chicago area. No Fox Cities stores are affected by the strike.

Victor Reysa, secretary-treasurer of the union's Local 1550, said Tuesday the picketing was informational to put pressure on Kroger management to agree to a new contract.

He said picket lines have been set up in Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha and Janesville, Wis., St. Paul, Minn., St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., and Indianapolis and South Bend, Ind.

About 1,200 union members went on strike Thursday at Kroger stores in Cook, Lake, Will, Kane, McHenry and Kane counties in Illinois and Lake County in Indiana.

Management and union spokesmen have said pension plan modifications are a major issue.

Tree Planting Plans Decided For Appleton

Public Works Board Says Method Will Be Same as for Curbs

In the future, Appleton's tree planting program will be handled on the same basis as curb and gutter and pavement installation—on request by aldermen, submitted to the council in resolutions.

The board of public works decided on that method Tuesday, because of complaints from property owners who are scheduled to have trees planted in their terraces this spring.

Some property owners objected to the trees because their streets are not fully developed with curb and gutter, while others already have trees growing inside the sidewalk line on their private property. The terrace, between curb and sidewalk, is city property.

None of the owners objected to the $7 per tree assessment, but some didn't like the locations on their terraces where the park board plans to plant the trees. They were assured by the park

Europe Trip to Fulfill Woman's Travel Ideas

Mrs. Patricia Coffey of Menasha signed up for the Post-Crescent's Holiday in Europe "on the spur of the moment," but she's fulfilling a dream she's had for a long time.

"I'm interested in traveling," she said, "and I'll make the first trip a big one."

Questions About Shopping

A widow, Mrs. Coffey said she felt the tour is a good opportunity to get away, meet new people, and see places she's always heard about. She's especially interested in seeing the French Riviera and the Swiss Alps.

And like all women, she's filled with questions about shopping. "I'd like to go with an empty suitcase and come back with it filled with things from Europe," she laughed.

Woman Says Man Took Gun Away, Pushed Her

OSHKOSH — A rural Oshkosh woman reported to the Winnebago County Sheriff's Department Tuesday afternoon that a man pushed her into a ditch when she tried to stop him from taking her dog.

Mrs. Roger Perkins, route 5, reported a neighbor told her he saw a man trying to get her dog to follow him on the railroad tracks north of County Trunk GG between U.S. 41 and County Trunk A in the Town of Vinland.

The complaint stated she got a shotgun from her house and ordered him to leave. She reported he took the gun away from her, shoved her in the ditch along the railroad tracks, threw the gun into a field and left.

Escapes Get 2 More Years

3 Inmates at State's Oneida Honor Farm Each Plead Guilty

Three Wisconsin State Reformatory inmates who walked away from the institution's Oneida Honor Farm received added two-year sentences in County Court Branch 2 Tuesday afternoon.

Judge James W. Byers imposed the sentences after David C. Halbrucker, 19, route 1, Muskego, Earl L. Cassel, 21, Milwaukee, and Lester C. Frahmman, 26, Owen in Taylor County, each pleaded guilty, to charges of escape.

Halbrucker and Cassel left the farm in Outagamie County near Oneida about 3 a.m. on March 18. They hid in the basement of a church at Oneida where they built a fire to keep warm and then stole a 1954 car and drove to Oshkosh. There the car had a flat tire and Halbrucker called an uncle at Appleton. The uncle, Melvin Forbes, drove the two escaped inmates back to the reformatory here and they turned themselves in voluntarily about 7:30 a. m. March 20.

Two Burglaries

Halbrucker originally was sentenced to two years for two burglaries in Waukesha County on Sept. 20, 1960, and received an added one-year term on Nov. 25, 1961, when he admitted dragging a passing driver out of a car and beating him up. Halbrucker was on parole at the time. Before the escape, he had seven months to serve.

Cassel was sentenced to the reformatory originally for five years on Oct. 23, 1959, after convictions for burglarizing a food store and a restaurant in Milwaukee. He had 2½ years to serve at the time of his escape.

Frahman left the Oneida Honor Farm about 9:30 p. m. April 3. He slept in a woods that night and about 9:30 a. m. April 4 was arrested while walking along State 161 west of Pulaski by Ed Pasowicz, Pulaski Village Marshal.

Frahman was sentenced to the reformatory for three years on Feb. 13, 1962, for stealing 11 mink near Medford and selling the pelts for $135. His new two-year term will be added to the total of two years and nine months he had to serve before the escape.

Roland L. Kuehnl Named Fire Chief

25-Year Veteran With Force Has Been Acting Head of Department

Roland L. Kuehnl, 52, a 25-year veteran on Appleton's fire department, was named chief Tuesday by the police and fire commission, George Dame, secretary announced today.

Kuehnl was named acting chief Jan. 15, 1962, when Chief Alfred Arnold resigned to retire Feb. 1. The commission spent five hours Tuesday night interviewing three candidates, selected as the top three from among eight applicants who took the written examination.

Dame said the commission will meet Monday night to choose one of six candidates for police chief. The six received the top scores from among 18 applicants, and meet other requirements for the job. Police Chief Walter Hendricks retired April 1.

One of the other candidates for fire chief is a resident of Beloit. The third candidate is a civilian employee of the U.S. Air Force. Both men have firefighting training and experience.

"We selected Kuehnl because he has done a very good job," Dame said. "He has brought new life into the department and is an excellent organizer. His appointment becomes effective May 1."

$700 Bond for Three Charges Against Youth

OSHKOSH — Bond of $700 was ordered this morning by County Judge Arnold J. Cane for an Oshkosh youth charged with resisting arrest, reckless driving and disorderly conduct.

Ronald Leichtfuss, 18, 534 Evans St., denied the three charges and trial was set for June 4.

Leichtfuss was arrested in Omro at 10 p.m. Tuesday by county police. A county patrolman said he pursued Leichtfuss after seeing the youth drive around a corner at "a high rate of speed."

Leichtfuss attempted to get away by driving into a driveway, police said. When he was ordered to move his car to the street, the youth attempted to flee on foot, police reported. After being recaptured, he was handcuffed.

Juvenile Officer To be on Panel

LT. Vilas Burmeister, juvenile officer of the Appleton Police Department, will be a panel member discussing juvenile police problems at a University of Wisconsin training course in May.

Burmeister and several other police officials will discuss problems of small municipality police departments in fighting juvenile delinquency. Burmeister said the panel will discuss various cases and how the department settled them.

The panel will be conducted May 3 and again May 17.

Reynolds Says State May Use Prosecutors To Enforce Safety

MADISON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Reynolds said in an opinion Tuesday that the State Industrial Commission has the authority to use the services of district attorneys to enforce safety regulations.

In the opinion request by commission chairman Mathias F. Schimenz, the attorney general said that although the commission has used the attorney general's office exclusively in seeking injunctive action, the law "makes available to the commission the legal services of both the attorney general and the district attorneys throughout the state."

Reynolds said deciding between the two prosecuting agencies is largely a matter of policy.

How Many Golf Balls Can This Thief Really Put to Use?

OSHKOSH — Some golfer probably is not going to worry if his slices go into the woods or his hook shots into the brook.

Robert Mugerauer, who operates the Par 3 driving range on State 21 west of Oshkosh, reported to Winnebago County Police at 8:50 a.m. today that someone had stolen 2,500 golf balls from his place.

The balls are left lying overnight between the 100-yard and 250-yard markers and are picked up by a neighbor boy each morning. The neighbor boy, Bob Reigh, this morning found the rear fence broken down and the 2,500 golf balls missing.

Lourdes High Band to Sponsor Record Hop

The Lourdes High School band will sponsor a teen-age record hop at the 20th Century Club, Oshkosh, from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday. The club is located on the corner of High and Wisconsin avenues.

Bob Bandy of WCWC, Ripon, formerly of Appleton, will act as emcee and disc jockey.

This is the first year Lourdes has had an instrumental music program. Proceeds from the dance will be used to help finance the program.

Board of Public Works Hopes Construction Can Begin In July for Early Completion

Construction of Appleton's parking ramp at the southwest corner of Division and Washington streets may begin late in July so it will be open by Thanksgiving when the Christmas shopping season opens.

Preliminary plans for the 100-car deck over the present city parking lot were approved by the board of public works Tuesday.

It is expected final plans will be ready for board approval May 15 so the council can approve them on May 16. Tentative date for opening bids is June 26.

W. T. Collings of W. T. Collings Co., Milwaukee, consultant engineers and architects for the city's two proposed ramps, told the board he estimates a 16-week construction period.

Estimate Costs

He estimated construction costs of $330,000, or about $1,230 per stall. The city has paid as high as $1,800 per stall. The ramp will be financed from parking meter revenue.

The cost per stall is moderate, Collings said, even though the entire ramp must be built on deep pilings, because it will be built on filled-in land where there formerly was a ravine.

The high portion of the present parking lot near the Walnut Street end will be excavated so that the lower level will be about even with Division Street. The upper level will be even with Walnut Street.

Entrance to the lower level will be from Division Street, and to the upper level from Walnut Street.

The ramp is engineered with wide driving lanes and parking stalls so that vehicles can maneuver easily, Collings pointed out.

The ramp is designed so that there will be a stairwell on Division Street side, about in the middle. Included in the stairwell area will be public rest rooms.

Third Level

Footings for the ramp have been designed strong enough so that a third level can be added in the future.

The ramp is designed so that when the third level is added only about nine stalls will be lost to

Superintendent of School

Royce E. Kurtz told the group that the school system probably will increase by more than 1,000 pupils and six elementary buildings next year (through attachment) and probably will have a staff of more than 400 teachers.

A major project of the teaching staff, he said, could be to take the responsibility to tell the public "We do have a vital story to tell," he said, "and so often problems are the result of misunderstanding or a lack of understanding."

Mrs. Elwin Welch, seated, widow of an Outagamie County traffic patrolman who died April 2, received a medal and certificate of merit from the National Police Association of America at the Outagamie County Courthouse today. Beating Factor in Woman's Heart Attack and Death

Shock Indicated, Pathologist Rules After Examination

OSHKOSH — The death of Mrs. May Gokey, 61, resulted from a heart attack brought on by a beating, Dr. H. M. Hillenbrand, Mercy Hospital pathologist Tuesday informed Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber.

The pathologist also said there was "strong suggestive evidence of sexual assault."

The district attorney said he had been advised by the pathologist that there were indications of shock and that Mrs. Gokey, who lived at 2831 Harrison St. in the Town of Oshkosh, had a history of a heart condition.

Bruises were found on both cheekbones, the chin and forehead and her sixth rib on the left side was broken. There was evidence that she had had a bloody nose and that the blood had been wiped off her upper lip.

There was no food in the stomach and Mrs. Gokey had not eaten for awhile, the pathologist indicated.

Steinhilber said a diamond ring is believed to be missing but it is not known if this was taken from her or is someplace in the house. A search is being made of the house to locate it.

Death occurred either sometime Thursday night or Friday morning, Dr. Hillenbrand said. Mrs. Gokey had been dead from 30 to 40 hours by the time he made the autopsy Saturday afternoon.

She was last reported alive Wednesday night when she telephoned to the Vice President Bar near her home, to say that she was ill. One of the patrons at the bar went to the house and returned to the tavern to verify that Mrs. Gokey was ill.

Her body was found at 11:30 a.m. Saturday by James Mathwig, proprietor of the tavern, who went to the home because he had not seen her for several days. She had come over to the tavern each day, he told authorities.

He found the body in a hallway, clad only in a nightgown. Mathwig said he returned to the tavern to call Winnebago County police.

Mrs. Gokey was born in Neenah. Her husband, the late Jess Gokey, died in 1953.

CAB Plans To Review 'Feeder' System

Outagamie, Area Counties Will be Included in Study

OSHKOSH — The Civil Aeronautics Board plans to review the "feeder" airline system in four Wisconsin areas, including the Winnebago, Outagamie and Brown County areas, T. K. Jordan, state aeronautics director, said in a talk to the Oshkosh Rotary Club.

The other areas to be checked are Sheboygan-Manitowoc, Wausau-Stevens Point-Marshfield and the LaCrosse-Winona-Minn. areas.

Work on the 2,400 foot extension to the Winnebago County Airport's east-west runway should begin about May 15. The airport control tower also should be activated about that date, Jordan said.

Contracts for instrument landing system will be let about May 20 and Jordan thought this system should be in operation sometime in August. The federal government pays the cost of this system and also the cost of operating the flight control tower.

Ranger Issues Warning as Forest Fire Period Begins

MADISON — An average of more than one forest fire every two hours occurred in Wisconsin during last year's critical April-May period, the conservation department warned today on the eve of the 1962 fire season. The total was 1,082 in 61 days.

In an annual report issued in connection with the warning, Chief Ranger Neil LeMay, Tomahawk, said careless debris burners, careless smokers and railroads caused the majority of the 1,878 fires that scorched the Wisconsin landscape last year. The number is 58 per cent higher than for 1960 and resulted in losses of $166,782 on 13,100 acres.

Extremely dry weather conditions during the first seven months of 1961 was the primary reason for the big jump in the number of fires with 172 of them burning some 2,000 acres during January, February and March when snow conditions usually protect the woods.

The report placed the responsibility for most fires on the shoulders of local residents who caused 1,057 or 56 per cent of the total. Transients started only 176.

Worst Fire

While hunters, fishermen and campers caused relatively few blazes, the worst fire of the year was started by a campfire which burned some 2,484 acres in Burnett County on May 30 and caused about 43 per cent of the total dollar damage for the entire year.

Careless burning of debris started 574 fires, careless smokers 361, railroads 346 and 376 were listed under miscellaneous causes. Of the total, 139 were started maliciously by incendiaries.

89 Arrested

During the year 89 persons were arrested for Wisconsin fire law violations and 82 convicted. Another 641 persons who caused fires paid suppression costs as a result of civil actions in court and 68 cases of this type are still pending.

Personnel in fire towers initially spotted 757 fires, local residents reported 775 and word on the remainder came primarily from emergency fire wardens and other conservation department employees.

Next to Burnett County, where forest fires swept 3,602 acres, those that suffered heaviest damage were Florence County with 973 acres, Washburn with 903, Columbia with 717, Iowa with 654 and Waushara with 538. Marinette, with 169, had the largest number of individual fires with Douglas next with 141. Washburn had 97, Oneida 76 and Waushara and Sauk 73 each.

Marathon Division Products, as well as other products of divisions of American Can Co., were used for packaging lunches served American Can Co. stockholders after their annual meeting in Chicago Tuesday. The lunches were eaten while stockholders were en route to Barrington, Ill., where American Can operates a food technological research center. All items in the lunch, except for the food itself and the salt and pepper shakers, were manufactured by various company divisions.

Chamber Unit, Council Discuss Traffic Plans

NEENAH — The city's tangled downtown traffic situation was discussed Tuesday evening at a meeting attended by Common Council members and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha and Kenneth L. Schellie Associates, Indianapolis planning firm.

At issue were Schellie's comments on a recent report compiled by a special traffic committee of the council. The report dealt with a system of one-way streets and traffic control recommended by the Schellie firm.

Leading the discussion was William Abrams, traffic specialist for the Indianapolis planning organization, which was hired jointly by the city and Chamber of Commerce to analyze the traffic problem and come up with recommended solutions.

Disagreements

In his original report, Schellie made a number of proposals that were later disputed by the special committee.

In place of some of the Schellie recommendations, the committee urged a new control system for the downtown area; parallel parking, and elimination of several parking spaces in order to speed the flow of traffic.

This committee's report is the subject of the latest report by the Schellie firm, according to Wayne Bryan, director of public works. Contents of the most recent Schellie statement have not been disclosed.

Study Session

"It was wholly and completely a study session," Bryan said of Tuesday's meeting. "No recommendations were made or expected."

The traffic study is a co-operative arrangement between the council and the Chamber, he added, and whatever is done must be acceptable to both.

Present at the meeting were Schellie; Charles Zahn, resident planner for the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission; aldermen and Chamber of Commerce officials.

UW Dean Tells Experiences While Living in Pakistan

NEENAH — His experiences while living in Pakistan last year as an adviser to the planning commission of the government of West Pakistan were related by Dr. Edwin Young, Tuesday evening, for Neenah - Menasha Branch of American Association of University Women.

Dr. Young, who is dean of the college of letters and science at the University of Wisconsin, served in an advisory capacity in work on Pakistan's second 5-year plan of economic development.

There, the average income is about $60 a year compared to an average of $2,000 per capita or $7,000 per family a year in this country, he said.

The problem facing the government is not only how to raise the standard of living, but in what manner to do it, he said. In trying to develop a country do you place your investments in something that pays off right away or in something, such as education, where the pay-off comes later?

375 Reservations Received for Labor, Management Dinner

MENASHA — Reservations already received for the Labor-Management dinner set for 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Elks Club total 375, making this dinner one of the largest in several years.

Planning

He compared the planning commission in Pakistan to the Budget Bureau of this country. The present government is "working hard" to increase economic development, but faces many problems, such as lack of resources and a rapidly rising population. The population rise is due not only to an increasing birth rate, but to a declining death rate as well, he pointed out. There has been a great reduction in infant mortality.

There are probably more engineers in the Neenah-Menasha Appleton complex than in all of Pakistan, he observed. Pakistan was a colonial country and did reap some benefits from colonialism, he said. The civil service that was trained by the British is what keeps this country together. Although other areas were ignored by the British, this contribution should be noted.

Dr. Young currently is serving as a member of an advisory committee to the Agency for International Development in Washington, D.C. Mrs. Young showed examples of Pakistan craft work and described the home life and role of women in Pakistan.

Transfer Prosecution To Winnebago Court

MENASHA — Prosecution of Ted R. Neely, 58, 317 Lopas St., Menasha, on a charge of driving too fast for conditions, has been transferred to Winnebago County Court in Oshkosh. His case was to have been heard today by Menasha Municipal Justice of the Peace Arthur J. Alcos.

Neely was charged April 5 after his car rammed the rear of another auto at the Racine Street bridge. A four-car line-of-traffic resulted.

Tree Planting Plans Decided For Appleton

board that the curb markings for tree locations are flexible depending on specific needs.

First Year

This is the first year for the tree planting program. The ordinance was passed by the council in February, 1961.

The park board made up the list of streets to be planted this spring. It appears the board inadvertently selected some unimproved streets. The ordinance specifically states no trees shall be planted along unimproved streets.

About 25 taxpayers attended a public hearing at Wednesday's council meeting to object to some of the plantings scheduled for this spring. In general, their streets were stricken from the list. A group of taxpayers, in favor of the trees, attended the board session Tuesday.

Could be Solved

Arthur Jones, park board secretary, told the works board he believes all the problems could be solved if the city would plant the trees free instead of assessing seven dollars per tree.

However, several board members didn't think it would be fair to use tax money from the older sections of the city to pay for trees in the newer areas. Residents of older areas paid for their trees years ago, it was pointed out, and had to plant them themselves.

Jones said that when you assess for trees the property owners become part owners of the trees. That is what starts all the trouble, he said.

It was pointed out as taxpayers people are part owners of public property and that they do have a lot to say about what is done.

No Difference

Several works board members pointed out that assessing for trees is no different than assessing for water, sewer, curb and gutter and pavement. Special assessments are levied against property owners to help pay for public improvements from which they benefit.

Roger Rindt, park forester, said that each street must be treated as unit. To plant trees in terraces where property owners want them is to individualize each lot, he said.

cash, by taking money from the parking meter revenue account and by getting a short-term loan from local banks, thus avoiding large interest payments for a period up to 20 years.

The mayor's formal proposal to the council to use cash was tabled at the mayor's request, until final plans for the ramp are completed.

Mitchell was not at the board's meeting Tuesday because he is in the hospital for a physical check-up.

The ramp at the southwest corner of Division and Washington streets is the smaller of two proposed for the city.

Bigger Ramp

A ramp to accommodate approximately 400 cars and to cost an estimated $630,000 is being planned for the two city parking lots bounded by Washington, Morrison and Franklin streets.

Collings told the board Tuesday that as soon as final plans for the smaller ramp are completed his firm will concentrate on plans for the larger structure.

No tentative dates were given by when it is hoped construction of the large ramp can be started.

It was decided to build the small one first so that one could be ready for use by the 1962 Christmas shopping season.

didn't believe that the unit idea for street tree planting had to be that rigid to get the desired esthetic value of the trees.

Not Ruined

They thought that individual lots should be given some consideration so the looks of a man's home is not ruined by poor placement of trees, just to satisfy the desire for a nice looking street. "A man has just as much right to want his lot and home to look nice as the city has to want the street to look good," they said.

The park board has committed itself to buying 700 trees for planting this spring.

So that the trees will not be wasted it was suggested that aldermen find out what streets in their wards would like trees this spring, then substitute those streets for the ones that were deleted from the original list.

The deadline for aldermen to request trees in the future will be Sept. 15 for trees to be planted the following spring.

By having the deadline far in advance there will be ample time for the legal procedure that must precede planting. A public hearing must be held so objectors can be heard, notices of intent to levy special assessments must be sent to property owners, bids for trees must be taken, a contract awarded and sufficient time allowed for delivery. Most of these items must be advertised and there are some legal waiting periods between each.

Says Discounting to Get Steels Lead Major Share of Sales Sharp Decline operating leased departments in discount stores, Rosenzweig said. The lessees, he explained, can pay rent to the discount chain, operate at a low gross margin and still make large profits by turning over their merchandise very rapidly. He illustrated the point by stating that the average drug store must operate with a 38 per cent gross margin to net two per cent after taxes, while a drug lessee can operate on a 21 per cent gross margin and net almost 3 per cent after taxes.

A discount chain can regulate a lessee's pricing and quality policies under a lease agreement which specifies maximum markup and methods of operation, he said. The lease generally contains a provision that either party can terminate the lease in 30 days, he said.

Describing his own company, Rosenzweig said, "Within the next 60 days, G.E.M. anticipates that a family group will come to our front desk and be informed that they are the one-millionth family to have become members of the G.E.M. family." That represents 2 per cent of the U.S. to all family population, he pointed out.

He said his chain locates stores only in major metropolitan areas, a point or so were Republic Steel, and couldn't produce enough volume to operate profitably in the Fox River Valley.

Two Types

He divided discount operations into two types, vertical and horizontal. "Vertical" stores operate most or all of their own departments and "horizontal" stores lease all or most of their departments.

There also are closed-door and open-door discount stores, he said. Closed-door operations qualify their customers and sell them memberships.

This allows them to gear their merchandising to a specific type of customer and to develop a good mailing list. Open-door operations are open to everyone.

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel headed a sharp stock market decline early this afternoon. Trading was moderate. Aluminums retreated.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.50 at 253.40 with industrials off 2.40, rails off .60 and utilities off .60. Losses of key stocks went from fractions to 2 or 3 points.

Steels more than wiped out their recovery of the previous session when they were anticipated U.S. Steel's action in declaring the regular 75-cent dividend.

Security analysts reported some disappointment that Big Steel had earnings of only 91 cents a share instead of about $1.10, as had been expected.

A sharp decline of aluminums and other stocks was linked by Wall Streeters to a prominently published account of Commerce Secretary Luther M. Hodges' report that the aluminum industry, among others, might be watched closely by the administration when the national interest is involved in wage-price decisions.

U.S. Steel widened its initial loss to more than 2 points and Jones & Laughlin was down 3. Off only in major metropolitan areas, a point or so were Republic Steel, Lukens, Inland and Youngstown came to operate profitably in the Fox River Valley.

Bidder Wants No Liability For Sewer Job

Asks City Assume Responsibility for Possible Damages

The low bidder for storm sewer construction in Appleton this summer wants the city to assume all liability for damage to water, sewer and gas mains on Fairview Street, where the storm sewer trench will be dug near those utilities.

McHugh and Coppens Construction Co. notified the board of public works it doesn't want the job unless the city assumes the liability.

Board members refused to have the city assume liability, on the basis that bid prices are supposed to reflect the extra cost for shoring the ground around the mains. The contract was awarded to the firm.

Forfeit Bond

The board said that if McHugh and Coppens refuses to do the job at the bid price it will forfeit its bid bond, which is five per cent of the $92,673 base price offered. The next lowest bid for the job was $116,846, and the highest, $174,015.

John McHugh and Ted Coppens attended the board session Tuesday.

Knew Situation

They were asked if their price reflected the extra work and materials to protect the sewer, water and gas mains. "Only partially," McHugh answered.

The two men were asked if they were aware of the situation on Fairview Street, and if they had been given a set of plans and specifications when they took out a bid form.

They said they were "somewhat aware" of the situation, and had been given a set of plans and specifications by the engineering department.

Bids Opened

The works board opened bids for parking meters, asphalt road oils, crack and joint filler, fogging material for mosquito abatement and water lateral construction for this season.

Duncan Meter Co., Chicago, submitted the only bid for 140 meters. Single meter price was $48.10 and dual-head meters, $93.50.

Henry Towne Laboratories submitted the only bid for fogging material at $1.28 a gallon, less a 1 per cent discount.

Nine bids were received for road oils, ranging from $10.85 a gallon in tank cars to $12.79 in transport trucks.

Four bids were received for crack and joint filler, ranging from $41.30 to $60 a ton.

Four bids were received for sewer and water lateral installation, ranging from $3.60 to $4.50 a foot.

The bids were referred to the department of public works for tabulation.

Many Old Favorites Won't be Back in Fall

TV Series Ending with Current Season Cover Wide Variety of Shows

BY BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alas, it's time for our annual farewell to the television series that won't be around next fall.

This is the sad season around the Hollywood studios as the casts and crews grind out the final segments before their series sail off to syndication, that Valhalla for television shows.

So long, Bob Cummings. Your third series didn't quite make it. Hope you try again.

Ditto Gertrude Berg. Sorry your college career was cut off before you graduated.

Others Going

Goodbye to all those crime-and-corruption shows. Things will be quiet around the "87th Precinct." "Cain's Hundred" will be unemployed. Even Robert Taylor's detectives will be out of their jobs.

"Straightaway" went thataway. "Follow the Sun" did. "Surfside 6" got drowned. "Target: The Corrupters" missed. Same with the Investigators.

Trouble with all of these shows: they were touchable.

Westerns Leaving

The cowpokes got knocked out of the saddle, too. "Maverick" went over the hill, followed by the "Lawman." There will be no more "Tales of Wells Fargo," no more "Tall Man." It looks as if "Frontier Circus" has run out of dates, too.

Farewell to Bugs Bunny and "Calvin and the Colonel." Those Hathaway chimps will be in the unemployment line as well.

Other families will be breaking up: "Pete and Gladys," "Room For One More" and that long-lasting "Bachelor Father."

More Casualties

The girl who originated the role in films is still doing all right, but it looks like curtains for "National Velvet" on television. The other retreat of a Taylor Movie, "Father of the Bride," is also a casualty.

Bob Young's "Window on Main Street" has cracked, and Groucho won't be back. Even the lights of G.E. Theater have gone out after nine years.

Goodbye to "Marge," "Thriller," "Weir Bros." and "Ichabod and Me." Happy syndications.

Who knows — the miracle of a last-minute reprieve might come through. You might even be able to rise from the dead, like the "Law and Mr. Jones."

But, sad to say, it looks as if Mr. Jones' revival will be short-lived. He's missing from the fall schedule, too.

Senior Coed To Give Flute, Song Recital

Lawrence senior Enid Skripka, Milwaukee soprano and flutist, will present a program in these two media at 8:15 p.m. Thursday at Harper Hall.

The recital is the 18th in the current Lawrence Conservatory student series. Miss Skripka, a music education major, studies voice with John Koopman and flute with Patricia Mann.

Mrs. John Koopman, pianist for the recital, will join Miss Skripka in a baroque sonata for flute and piano by the Italian composer Vercini.

Miss Skripka also will sing a group of German art songs, a selection from Mozart's opera, "The Magic Flute," and four songs from the operas of Puccini. Her flute presentations include two modern works, an impressionistic setting by French composer Olivier Messiaen and the picturesque "Poem," by American Charles Griffes.

The recital is open to the public without charge. Miss Skripka's complete program is as follows:

Gretchen Am Spinnrade (Margaret at the Spinning Wheel) Schubert
O komme, holde Sommernacht (O Come, Delightful Summer Night) Brahms
Das Verlassene Magdlein (The Forsaken Maiden) Walt
O Zittere Nicht (Be not Afraid) from The Magic Flute Mozart

Sonata Prima for Flute and Piano Vercini (1960-1968)

Le Marie Noir pour Flute et Piano Olivier Messiaen (1952)

Poem IV. Tu che di gel sei cinta (Thou Who with Ice Girl's) from Turandot Puccini
L'ora, a Tarsi are Hours of Joy's (Creeping) from Manon Puccini

O mio babbino caro (Father, My Little Darling) from Puccini
Quando man vo (Musetta's Waltz) from La Boheme Puccini

This is the eighteenth recital in the 1962-63 Student Series. Miss Skripka, a senior, is from the Voice studio of John Koopman, and the Flute studio of Patricia Mann, and is a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Music with a major in Music Education.
